ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PLASTIC flowers that look real enough to fool the bees are invading Canada. They come from factories in Hong Kong, Japan and Spain.

They may become a serious threat to the Canadian flower-growing industry.

I found a vivid spray of plastic Sweetheart roses in a grocery store, priced at 40 cents. The stems had sharp synthetic thorns and there was a fresh glow on the roses, as if they had just been picked.

Douse them in scent, hang a plastic spider's web glistening with plastic dew on the tip of a bud, and those phony roses would deceive Luther Burbank.

Plastic corsages will be useful to the thrifty young bumpkin who wants to recover some of the money he has invested in taking a girl to a dance. If he feels that the evening has not been a success, he can demand his corsage back.

The plastic bouquet will serve well at Hollywood weddings. Bridesmaids need not hang around waiting to catch it. The bride will carry it off in her honeymoon suitcase. Six months later she can wipe it with a damp cloth and use it again. There's a useful household hint for you.

Such things really could happen. I saw plastic orange and apple blossoms in that grocery store. The grocer said they had fooled an orchard man, for the first 10 seconds.

The synthetic blooms are on sale alongside real ones in many flower stores: Lilies of the valley, dogwood, orchids, all cleverly fashioned from polyethylene.

"Hong Kong and Japan aren't the only places where they're made," said Arthur Douglas of Jones Wholesale Florists. "We have a double white orchid made in Barcelona. Six feet away you'd swear it was the real thing."

"But people will always want real flowers," Mr. Douglas said. "Artificial flowers can't match them for delicacy."

I'm not so sure. The artificial blooms look frighteningly real. It worries me to see them. They are a symbol of the way that mankind is losing touch with the earth and its living things.

Not only artificial cut flowers, but artificial potted plants are on the market. You can buy plastic geraniums, fuchsia, ivy—even a plastic aspidistra. All of them look real.

The new Oak Bay liquor store has a garden of plastic tropical greenery. Ballantyne's put it in. Pots or boxes of plastic plants are ideal for rooms that are too dark for real plants—places like cocktail bars.

There are no messy petals or leaves to fall into the customers' martinis, either.

A man will be able to have a brilliant all-weather garden, anywhere in Canada. The roses, frangipani and hibiscus will make a fine display in the snow of a Winnipeg front yard.

A vacuum cleaner and a damp rag will be all the garden tools a man needs to cultivate the plastic lawn and the plastic flowers. Much as I hate work, I don't look forward to that.

Federal Workers, Troops Moonlighting

Victoria Labor Council has received a new report detailing specific instances of "moonlighting" by federal government employees and members of the armed forces.

Jack Driscoll, head of the labor group which made the study, said yesterday no satisfaction was forthcoming when the practice of holding two jobs was drawn to the attention of Defence Minister Pearkes and authorities at HMC Dockyard in Esquimalt.

The report charged: One man holding down a regular job with the naval fire department here is working at the Douglas Building Supply Ltd., "where a legal strike is in progress and a legal picket line is maintained."

Complaints have also been received that other members of the naval fire service have taken out contractors' licences and "are undercutting legitimate contractors" on building trades work.

Service personnel have also been "found scabbing" on jobs at wages lower than those obtained by organized building trades workers.

The report went on to detail "further instances" to support the later charge. It said: "At Comox air force station RCAF personnel have been used to install a new heating system and sheet metal workers employed by a contractor have been laid off."

Official replies to repeated protests, which date back to 1954, have been that so long as the second job does not bring discredit to the service or impair the worker's efficiency in carrying out his regular job, authorities can take no action.

In recent years, the report added, there has been only one protest about a provincial government employee who was found to be moonlighting, and the government immediately took action against the worker involved.

'Honest Joe' Breaks Law But Feels He's Justified

"You can't blame them—some of them. Quite a number of jobs pay only about $1 an hour, and you're not going to get work at $1 an hour if you can stay home and get $30 a week unemployment insurance."

(He was a little off the beam there. A girl who has been working at $1 an hour can obtain, if she has no dependants, $17 a week; if she has a dependent, $24 a week. But on the other hand, she can earn $9 a week in the one case and $12 a week in the other without reduction of her benefit.)

ANOTHER REASON

"There's another reason I let a girl go without being specific about the reason sometimes, too. Most employers want to keep a good girl if they get one, and I'm no exception. So if I have a good girl and she's going to have a baby, I'll let her go soon enough that she can draw unemployment insurance for a while, and that way she'll be more inclined to come back and work for me afterward."

"Anyway," he said, "when they have paid the money in, why shouldn't they get it out?"

The UIC, of course, presses for the reason for dismissal, because an employee fired for misconduct isn't eligible for benefits, nor is one who quits without being able to prove just cause, nor is a woman within six weeks of confinement.

NO ABUSE

But even where there is no abuse of unemployment insurance, some employers don't like being specific, and where there is, employers have a reason they can give:

"The employment service demanded to know why I fired young Pete, but I told them where they could go," a garageman said. "Darned if I'm going to say a fellow is a crook or lazy or something when perhaps with someone else or in another line of work he might be fine, and when he doesn't know what I've written about him."

"An employer might have a grudge and really make things tough for a fellow."

TYPICAL REASONING

These were typical reasonings of small employers.

The personnel manager of a large firm, just as typically, said that "some girls do ask to be dismissed, but I talk them out of it. I point out to them, for one thing, that it spoils their record, and that they won't be able to get a job with us again."

Sometimes, he said, a girl just resigns and then tells the UIC she had to resign because of the "terrible" conditions at work. But the UIC always makes inquiries.

Canada Anti-Sub Forces May Use U.S. A-Weapon

OTTAWA (CP) — Details are being worked out to an agreement under which Canadian anti-submarine forces will be supplied with American atomic depth charges, Defence Minister Pearkes said Thursday.

Canada's anti-submarine forces comprise the Royal Canadian Navy's aircraft carrier

Bonaventure, destroyers, planes and helicopters and the RCAF's long-range Argus aircraft.

Coming from a cabinet meeting, Mr. Pearkes confirmed that negotiations aimed at arming the navy and RCAF with atomic depth charges now are under way.

The minister was asked whether the depth charges would be stored at such locations as Argentina, Nid, an American leased base.

"It is too early to say where they will be kept," Mr. Pearkes replied.

The minister was also asked whether American officers would be attached to Canadian warships to effect the requirement of U.S. law that American troops must retain custody and control of U.S. nuclear weapons.

Mr. Pearkes said this and similar details are under discussion.

Labor Backs Dairy

Organized labor in Greater Victoria has added its weight to the protest against provincial regulations banning the use of 64-ounce cartons by a Saanich dairy.

A letter requesting a meeting for a delegation from Victoria Labor Council with the cabinet was sent to Premier Bennett yesterday.

Earlier labor council delegates endorsed the stand of a group of Saanich farmers who banded together to start operation of the Milky Way Dairy this summer.

E. T. Staley, council vice-president and a member of the committee which investigated the dairy operation, said: "I feel sure this (new regulation) was passed specifically to big dairies on the mainland could keep the monopoly on half-gallon cartons sold in Greater Victoria."

Ed Haw, another member of the committee, said: "It we don't take a stand to help these farmers the government is going to put them out of business."

Seafarers Hail Victory

Closing down of the permanent Victoria office of the Seafarers' International Union was hailed by the spokesman for a rival union as further evidence "we've pretty well broken the back of the SIU on the West Coast."

Vern Calkins, B.C. regional representative for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, said last night: "It's quite obvious the SIU has nothing to do now in Victoria. We've got the members — they haven't."

Closure of the SIU office in the labor hall on Pandora was disclosed when office space was put up for rent this week.

Youth of Labrador Seeking Education to Help Eskimos

Faces of Canada

By LEON KOSSAR

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (TNS)—Meet young Fred Lyall, Labradorian.

Seal-hunter, Arctic char fisherman, welfare worker, and quiet, sober-minded student of commerce.

Equally at home in English or Eskimo.

No Contest

Home to Fred is the Eskimo village of Nain, some two-thirds of the way up the Labrador coastline. It won the Most Northerly title from Hebron, a community 100 miles to the north, just beyond Labrador's tree line. But it wasn't any sort of contest. For Hebron has just died.

It became an Eskimo ghost town this month.

Beauty Spot

Fred Lyall's Nain—a rugged beauty spot of giant rockery, stubby trees—is doggedly holding its own against the north.

If the great ore developments planned for Ungava spill over into Labrador, Fred's village of 400 can hope for a boom.

If they don't, Nain, too, may go.

The last of 50 Eskimo families in Hebron were resettled this month in Nain and communities to the south: Makkovik, Hopedale. Two complete settlements have now been transplanted by the province to centralize medical, communication facilities.

Too Much Life

"But there's really too much life in Nain to think of moving our community," says the 22-year-old youth who grew up with Eskimo youngsters, among Eskimo ways.

The Lyalls are one of 10 white families in this coastal hamlet.

This is the second in a series of articles introducing Canadians to Canadians.

More young men of north and central Labrador are venturing to larger centres today in quest of education. Fred's in third year commerce at St. John's Memorial University. Here at high school from his own village is Johnny Ford, 19, whose family once lived with Hebron's Eskimos.

Diesel Study

One of their close chums, Eskimo Zach Tattaak, 22, came down last year to study diesel engineering at North West River's Vocational School, near Goose Bay.

Fred is a summertime interpreter and aide at Nain for the Northern Affairs Branch of the province. Most of the white settlers here work in administration or fishing under the branch.

Fred hopes to work in Labrador after graduation. Johnny hopes to be a teacher like his sister Beatrice. "In Labrador, naturally!"

"Labradorians are different from Newfoundlanders," Johnny will say proudly. He saw his first real urban centre, St. John's, for the first time this fall. "People in Labrador are friendlier, closer."

But island Newfoundlanders, a close bunch themselves, will hardly buy Johnny's message.

Fred Lyall examines cribbage board made from seal tusk by an Eskimo.

Tuglavina, and other Eskimo families at Nain. They play childhood games, intermix at community events in young adulthood. There's a Boy Scout and Girl Guide troop; for the older ones, dances and films, church programs. A few have intermarried. "But there isn't too much of it," says Fred.

"Gone fishin'" is "ungan-iak"; hunting the Arctic seal, "poiij."

"I don't remember learning Eskimo. We all grew up with it. It's as natural as fried seal steaks," explains Johnny.

But mention "kayak" or "igloo" to them, and you'll draw blank looks.

Neither they nor their Eskimo cohorts have ever seen any. Nain falls short of the Arctic circle.

Instead, almost every Eskimo family in this neat cluster of 60 wood-frame buildings owns its own motorboat. They depend on it to fish cod, salmon, and the sea trout or Arctic char. Each family has its own dog team.

Scant Earnings

Yet fishing only brings Eskimo boatmen about $400 a summer.

The Eskimo community subsists in winter on unemployment insurance—or relief money.

Fred and Johnny look at the Eskimos of Nain as solid citizens, stronger in character and ambition than the "drifters"—the Nascaupie and Montagnais Indians who live nomadic tent lives to the south.

"Not too long ago none of the Eskimos wanted to leave the north. Now quite a few have gone south for jobs, leave if they had the chance," Fred points out.

"There's no racial discrimination; and Eskimos feel they're being treated right at their jobs."

"The Eskimo is coming into his own."

"But it will take more education," he says, "... more time."

Grievance Overruled

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)

A firemen's grievance committee was told by Mayor Beth Wood Wednesday that the city refuses to enter into arbitration with the Fire-fighters' Association over the proposed plan to have firemen direct push-hour traffic.

"We feel under the agreement and under the law we have the power to assign these duties and the matter is not arbitrable," Mayor Wood told the committee.

"We will not go to a board of arbitration and we will not appoint a member to a board," she added.

The association is suing the city for damages for alleged breaking of its working agreement.

Russian Suits For Apollo, Not People

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia complains that Russian factory-made clothes are tailored for the ideal body proportions of Apollo and Venus, but look bad on people.

Calling for reforms in factory-produced clothes—the government newspaper quotes V. Popkov, director of the sewing industry's central scientific research institute, as saying:

"Up to now the wrong principle of proportions to sizes of figures is at the base of clothes design... That's why suits sewn for Apollos look bad on ordinary people."

Contest for Every Seat

OFFICIAL nominations in Victoria's civic election closed yesterday with 18 candidates standing for seven seats, a contest scheduled in every division of the polling and a plebiscite on the contentious issue of fluoridation. Some of the apparent range of choice may be circumscribed by the fact that in both mayoralty and council tests a composite slate offered by the newly-formed Victoria Voters Association is challenging incumbents seeking re-election. Public interest may centre on the multiple mayoralty and council polls, both concerned with the city's administration; to a lesser extent on the three-way contest for two trusteeships in the Greater Victoria area, and on the fluoridation referendum.

Campaigning in the city election has been under way for some weeks, and is entering its final phase. We have already commented on the unwarranted and personal nature of the contest in some of its aspects; the stranger in this community which by habit prefers to reason out its choice. Any group or combination aside, one is glad to see a man of the stature of Very Rev. J. L. W. McLean offering himself for service on the council. The electors' problem would be less if more men of similar capacity were prepared to take an interest in civic affairs. Independent new entries are welcome. With nominations closed, however, the electors will vote on the ballot lists as they stand and, as it should, their decision will prevail.

The main challenge in the election, of course, is a vigorous contest for control of the directing influence in the affairs of Victoria. Mayor Scurrah and four long-service aldermen seeking re-election with him can point to the sound record of the current administration. Former alderman Donald Smith, M.L.A., and a voters' association slate of candidates supporting his bid for the mayoralty to succeed have to overcome that record and to establish why, in their view, what amounts to a new broom should now be swept through the city hall. Apart from the only declared slate in the contest, most candidates will be adjudged as independent individuals offering themselves, again or for the first time, in the service of the community.

Although Victoria's voters' list has changed little since the previous polling, the acrimonious campaign should draw out the voters. A thoughtful ballot freely cast in each and every division of the contest would be the best service that the voting public can render. And that extends beyond the seats to be filled to the long-drawn out fluoridation issue. Victoria voters should settle that argument now.

Neglected Promise

WORKS carried out by the Capital Improvement District Commission have enhanced the look of Greater Victoria, but the provincial government needs to be reminded that the plan in no way helps the City with its budget problems. The many handsome improvements which have been made are in the nature of embellishments or ornamentation—all very nice to have but, like the gift of a TV set to a hard-pressed family, of no assistance in the meeting of running expenses.

This is not what the City of Victoria was promised, or led to hope for, when Premier Bennett's government was campaigning for election. The Social Credit candidates on the public platform took note of Victoria's exceptional problems as the seat of government, with large provincial holdings exempt from taxation. Victoria was told that it was a special case which would receive special consideration to redress the inequity of tax exemptions. The capital improvement plan is all there is to show for that promise; and not by any stretch of the word could it be described as fulfillment.

Nocturnal Alarms

LATE on Wednesday evening this city was rocked by a reverberating blast that rattled windows and shook houses to their foundations. Many people guessed that jet planes breaking the sound barrier were the cause, but many others experienced a degree of alarm and newspaper and police offices were flooded with telephone calls.

It was the sudden and unknown nature of the explosion that created the concern, and the incident does give rise to some questions. Are jet fighters, especially foreign ones, free to roam the skies at night above Victoria and stalk the inhabitants half out of their wits? A report from the McChord Field near Tacoma indicated the culprits were four supersonic U.S. air force planes flying at more than 700 miles per hour.

It is pertinent to wonder what Seattle would think and what the reaction would likely be were RCAF planes to fly unannounced over that city and scare its citizens out of their beds. One suspects it would be the last time that Canadian planes performed any such nocturnal manoeuvre.

Canada and the U.S. are linked closely for their common defence, and training routines obviously are part of the liaison. Any necessity for night-time flying at speeds calculated to startle the citizens of coastal areas seems somewhat doubtful however if these are merely the private sorties of pilots. If in this instance they were not it is particularly strange that U.S. exercises over Canada should be carried out without clearance from this side. According to the facts the local army, naval and police authorities had no prior advice that the U.S. fighter planes would be over this city. Something seems to be amiss with the co-ordination of defence measures in these parts.

Outer Seven Negotiate

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE arrival in London of Premier Antonio Segni and Foreign Minister Giuseppe Rella of Italy completes Britain's six-week round of talks with members of the European Common Market.

The discussions, which began with a visit to Paris by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd in mid-October and were carried on during Chancellor Adenauer's visit to Britain, were not deliberately begun as a roll-call of the six members of the new-born economic community.

They were designed rather as a fence-mending operation to deal with the strains between Britain and her European allies that had grown up in the protracted negotiations towards a summit meeting.

With the summit temporarily thrust into the background and new uncertainties posed by the formation of a European Outer Seven under Britain's leadership, the function and relationship of the two groups have become increasingly important.

Britain's chief aims have been to convince the six common market partners that the new alliance wants to co-operate with them rather than oppose them, and to gain assurance that political outgrowths of the economic community do not get out of hand.

British spokesmen say the Outer Seven grouping is a substitute for the European free-trade area they hoped to establish as an adjunct to the common market and which foundered in disagreement over the terms of affiliation.

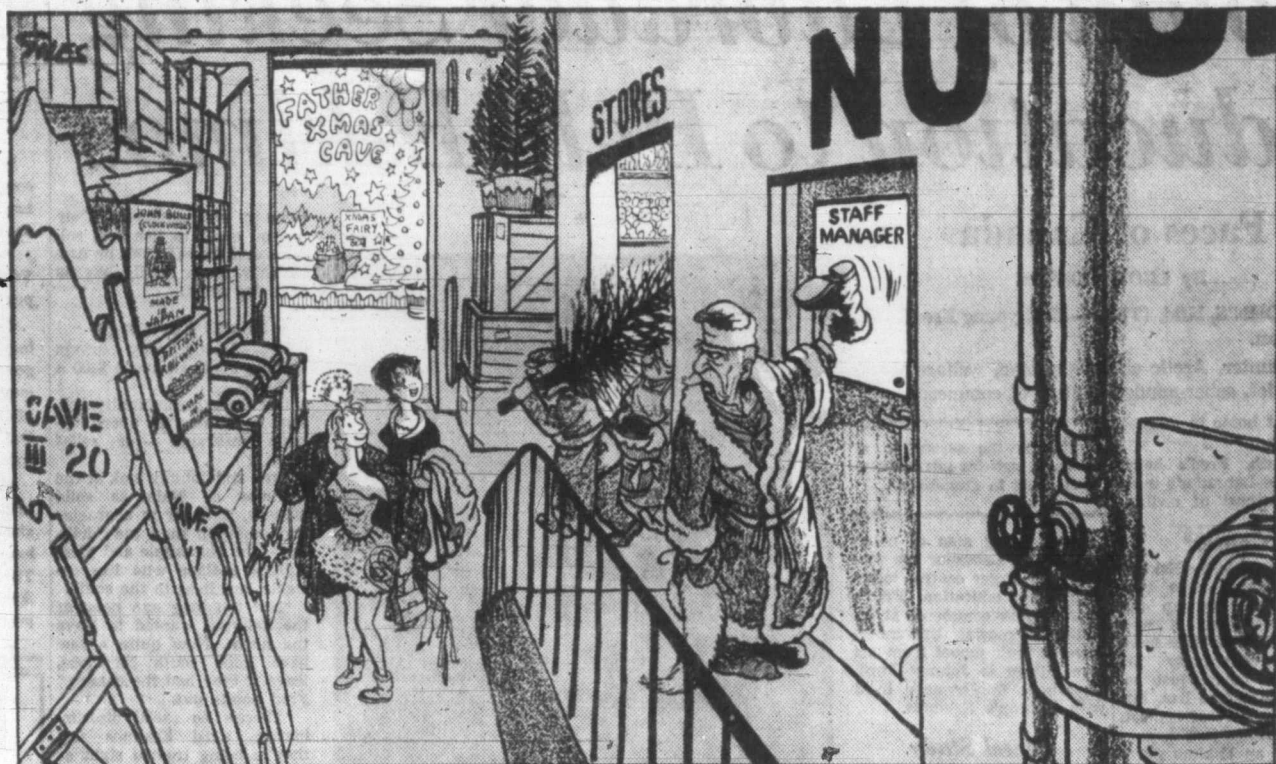

They now seek to build a bridge between the two groups as soon as the Outer Seven becomes a going concern. Meanwhile, they are worried that the growing political arm of the common market may cut across organizations that already exist to promote unity in Western Europe.

Britain has won a friendlier response from de Gaulle by urging that he bring purely continental problems to the Western European union, in which the six common market powers—France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands—share membership with Britain.

British officials expect to find the Italians co-operative in the political side of the discussions but less so in their economic aspects.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

YESTERDAY we were discussing the matter of retirement, or rather six eminent gentlemen were, which saved me the bother. This is a coffee-break era, remember.

By coincidence, or in learned parlance by the concatenation of circumstance, a letter came forth from Metehosin, containing in verse the autobiography of a reader through his ages.

Age, of course, is always with us, continuously after the advent. In the early years age has no impact except that birthdays, and therefore treats, are long in coming around. As one grows in size and, one hopes, in wisdom, the passing of mortal time assumes differing aspects.

One man's meal is another's poison, as folks are saying, of fluoridation these current moments, and retirement is not a mere per se. If the means afford a comfortable twilight one man may look forward to laying down his tools. If they do not, or if he fears he will simply rust into lethargy, another man may dread the break with life-long activity.

Mr. Nehru, yesterday, perhaps, probed the verity of the matter when he said everyone should have some function in life. Everyone has, naturally, else we exist for nothing, but he would mean interest. When interest dies, whether of work, play or private endeavour, the sap of life is dried.

Summers and winters pass into years, which is why my Metehosin reader has summoned the muse. If his poetry is neither Shakespearean nor Tennysonian it is none the worse for that. You may hear a personal echo as you scan the following:

Ah, twenty is a wondrous age,
You know as much as any sage;
The days are free, the nights are gay,
You feel that youth won't fade away.

Then thirty comes and you're aware
That problems come, and maybe care,
Troubles that seemed so far away
You wonder if they've come to stay.

I felt that, no, it couldn't be me,
Whose forty years have ceased to be;
I stop, I know it's getting late,
For there's a bald spot on my pate.

One morning I sat upon my bed
With bleary eyes and drooping head,
I knew I did not look so nifty
For I was getting close to fifty.

Now sixty years have passed my brow,
And Time's old hand is on the plough;
The furrows in my brow do show
And whiskers in my ears do grow.

And now my seventieth year I've reached,
I'm like a wreck that has been beached;
My knees are stiff, my back is bent,
I know not where the years were spent.

Now eighty years are getting near,
And now I neither hope nor fear,
I sit and smoke and drink some tea,
And wonder when the end will be.

If this is my reader's autobiography it is an example of how interest keeps the mind alive throughout the years. He, obviously, is not rusting into apathy.

Ethical Standards Reappraised

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

ONE of the most interesting developments of the American quiz expose is the effect it is having on the United Kingdom.

It has led to a quite surprising examination of our own ethical standards. At the start of the American revelations so many people were thankful that we in Britain were good and pure and beautiful, but more recently there have been some doubts. More and more people are inquiring whether the holier-than-thou attitude is justified.

It is, of course, true that there is nothing here to suggest anything quite of the magnitude of the American scandals, but then America was always bigger and better in its undertakings. But there are some nasty smells in Britain which seem to be emerging from the cracks in general complacency caused by the American explosion. It is anyone's guess whether a lot of little smells is better or worse than one of two big smells.

What is the position, for example, when a certain performer employs Mr. X as his or her agent with a perfectly straightforward 10 per cent on any engagements obtained by the efforts of Mr. X? It sounds a perfectly normal business transaction common to artists all over the world. But what if Mr. X also happens to be a director of a television company? And what happens when the casting director or producer wants someone for a role who is not on Mr. X's list?

On Taking Sides

Danger at the Door

(From The Montreal Gazette)

PRIME Minister Nehru has laid down three conditions precedent to talks on the border issue between himself and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. For talks, he maintains, can be useful only after some relaxation of border tension.

The first stipulation is that of a withdrawal of all Indians and Chinese from the disputed area in the Kashmir province of Ladakh. Secondly, Mr. Nehru demands the Chinese evacuation of the Longju outpost on India's northeast frontier, both sides should enter into an agreement not to send out patrols.

The effect of Red Chinese aggression is manifest in a note of increased firmness which has crept into the Indian prime minister's language, and to which he has been more or less goaded by an aroused public opinion in India.

It is most significant that the tendency to a stiffening attitude is equally perceptible in the latest statement of one whose thinking is very close to Mr. Nehru's—his sister, Mme. Vijaya Pandit, a former president of the United Nations General Assembly.

Mme. Pandit's attitude to world of clients. Does he engage them? Of course he does—occasionally—but it obviously helps to select from X's wide range of talent.

And what is the position if a performer is told that it would be very much easier to arrange engagements if he or she changed agents and became a client of Mr. X?

Is it coincidence that Mr. Y, who is a book publisher, is the director of a television company which seems to have a remarkable interest in his writers? Is it purely fortuitous that a performer who is popular on the BBC and is negotiating to star in a straight play is advised to have no television commitments or alternatively to transfer her allegiance to the BBC opposition?

These are the sort of things which seem to be happening in Britain these days—quite apart from lunches for disc jockeys—but no one seems to be quite certain where ethics end and corruption begins. There are obviously immense advantages in the big men of show business being interested in television program companies. Would it be wrong for a business man to stage a company lunch at an hotel in which he had a financial interest? Is it corrupt for a performer to invite a producer to lunch or send him a Christmas card?

The fact is, of course, that there is a vast grey world between black and white. One bottle of whisky for a business friend may be a gesture; a case could be corruption. A pocket diary could be above suspicion; but what about a car?

Even the law seems to have its doubts. Strictly a man who steals a penny is as much a thief as a man who steals a million dollars, but we would all be surprised if the courts treated him the same way. There is no law which says that it is worse to steal a penny from a blind newspaper seller than from a prizefighter, but magistrates the world over would reflect the public conscience by meting out a severe sentence to the mean and despicable thief.

It is an excellent thing that we should have these ethical reappraisals. It is having some effect. Some large companies and organizations have issued instructions that there shall be no giving or taking of gifts this Christmas. One theatrical agent, I am told, announced that he would not accept the usual 10 per cent from clients engaged by a television station he was interested in as an "ethical gesture." Said another agent: "Have you ever seen a more despicable way of attracting new clients than not charging his fee for television engagements?"

What should he do? Charge the fee and give it to the dogs' home?

Is there any absolute standard of ethical conduct?

A lawyer suggested that a thing became unethical if a person was paid by two separate interests for the same work without a specific agreement. A parson said that the only standard was conscience. "Every man knows when he is doing something a bit shady." Does he? Do consciences vary?

Maybe you would like to try it out on your guests at your next party. Would you refuse a tankful of gas from an automobile distributor who had sold a car to a friend of yours on your recommendation? Was the distributor wrong to offer it to you? My parson friend said that in such circumstances he would take the gas, but he would give half of it to his friend. Said a hard-headed business acquaintance: "If I introduced a sale worth the equivalent of $3,000 I would want a darned sight more than a tankful of gas."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

HOW do you pronounce England? In the dictionaries it is given as Ing-land. But on the TV the other night I heard a distinguished Briton referring to England. Eng was as in Engels, the partner of Karl Marx, and land was as we usually pronounce it, England. It mounted up to the same general effect that we arrive at with the familiar pronunciation of Ing-land. But there was a subtle difference.

To appreciate the difference, it is necessary to pronounce the two separately: Ing-land; Eng-land.

The interesting thing about the pronunciation of the name of this lesser part of an island lying out into the Atlantic is that it comes from a small tribe of Germans living north of Holland and south of Denmark, who found a way of crossing the bottom end of the North Sea just before it narrows into the English Channel, and migrated in considerable numbers to the comfortable little island around the year 400 A.D. in time to establish a community that neither the Norse Pirates, the Saxon adventurers of the sixth and seventh centuries, nor the French conquerors of the 11th century under William the Conqueror, could dislodge as the nomadic nomads of as dynamic a section of the globe as can be named in all history.

It takes a lot of tribes to make the English, let alone the British. And who can say how you should pronounce them?

'Absolutely Mad'

(From The New York Times)

BRITAIN has become so prosperous that weekend traffic jams can be worse than those in the U.S. One reason is that most of the roads are narrow and winding—romantic and all that, but terribly frustrating to the new-car owner who has to potter along behind a wheezing pre-war model.

In a move to correct this, the government recently began building some turnpike style roads. Last month the longest of these so far—a 72-mile stretch of the "no limit" London-Birmingham superhighway—opened, and a dizzying scene it was.

Cars zipped along at 100 m.p.h. One went so fast its engine fell out. Motorists unfamiliar with heavy fuel consumption at high speeds ran out of gas; auto clubs got distress calls at a rate of one every six minutes. A policeman said, "Some of them have gone absolutely mad."

Ernest Marples, minister of transport, said, "I am really appalled."

For Good Health

My five children have been taking sodium fluoride for the past three years by prescription. I'm sure this has helped them somewhat but those qualified to know say that this treatment is not nearly as beneficial as having the fluoride in the water supply and constantly available for assimilation through the system into the chemical makeup of the teeth.

Many letters recently have made an issue of the cost of fluoridation but from expert opinion I gather the cost is negligible in spite of the fact that much of the water goes down the drain. Surely today's adults shouldn't begrudge a few dollars to save our future adults many dollars in dental bills and much discomfort with fillings, extractions and false teeth.

Our good health is dependent upon a multitude of minerals, vitamins, etc., obtained from food and water. If some important mineral is missing in a certain locality, why not replace it artificially, whether or not it is classed as medication?

By the time we get fluoridation my children may be too old to benefit much from it. However, I still intend to press for it, as there will always be younger children who can benefit from it.

CHARLES O. SMYTHIES.

1592 Sonria Place.

Pressure Tactics

I have noted with interest the letters in the press concerning fluoridation, and feel that it is matter of deep regret that a clearly emotional approach is being made by a pressure group, supported by an imported anti-fluoridationist, to condition the minds of those without a knowledge of medicine or dentistry.

It is perhaps not surprising that this is so. Objection has been taken over the years, by the unformed or ignorant, to the use of chloroform and vaccines. But perhaps never before has there been such unanimous endorsement for a health measure as there is for fluoridation. Let the unprejudiced consider the following. It is endorsed by the Canadian Medical Association, Canadian Dental Association, Canadian National Research Council, all the medical and dental universities in Canada and the United States, the American Medical Association, American Dental Association, and U.S. National Research Council.

Two outstanding professions support the measure. It has received the blessings of medical and dental faculties in our universities. That is good enough for the writer. It is sincerely to be hoped that it will be good enough for at least 60 per cent of the voters of Greater Victoria.

Injured Woman Rejects Aid

A pedestrian declined medical attention after she was hit by a car at Quadra and Johnson at 6:30 last night.

Eloise Harrison, 29, of Duncan, complained of sore legs after the accident and accepted a ride in a police car to her own car, which was parked on Cook Street. Police said she was struck by a car driven by Sidney Spreight, 395 Sparton Road.

$56 Saved Hardened Offender

The John Howard Society received $13,496 from the Community Chest during 1958 and used it to help 332 Greater Victoria prisoners, a society official said yesterday.

Murray B. Gaw, newly appointed executive secretary of the Vancouver Island branch of the society, said the society receives about five cents out of every dollar raised by the Community Chest. It uses the money to save the taxpayer thousands of dollars by helping ex-prisoners stay out of jail.

Cost of keeping one man in jail for a year is at least $2,100. Mr. Gaw said. One hardened offender cost the taxpayer a total of $15,610 in prison costs before he was rehabilitated by the John Howard Society at a cost of $56 in time and service.

He is now a respected citizen running his own business and taking part in community affairs, Mr. Gaw said.

The society's branch, started in Victoria in 1936, maintains a liaison service between the prisoner and his family.

Man Faces Charge Of Selling Stray Cow

Magistrate William Ostler reserved judgment for one week in Saanich police court yesterday, following trial of a Granville Street resident on a charge of selling a stray cow. Arthur Edward Longland, 4050 Granville, was charged under a section of the Criminal Code involving fraudulent sale of stray cattle without consent of the owner.

Jagindar Singh Judge, 1703 Burnside West, who with his father, Jagar Singh Judge, operates a dairy farm at that address, told the court a Holstein heifer, born and registered on their farm, had vanished in October, 1958, when about two years old.

It was missing for about a year, then on Oct. 13 a cow turned up at the barn which, except for missing ear tags, was identical with the strayed animal. Marks on the ear indicated where the tags had been, he said.

Saanich Const. Charles Truett was told that the cow had recently been sold by Mr. Longland to his neighbor, Robert Charles Quin, 4060 Granville.

Ike Appeals for Steel Peace

Union Willing to Negotiate Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower, lecturing steel management and labor for failing to settle their marathon dispute, appealed to both sides last night to reach an agreement before he returns from his 11-nation goodwill tour.

Union president David A. McDonald promptly proposed that the president's fact-finding board recommend a settlement of all unresolved issues in the dispute.

McDonald released a letter to the president which said: "The union agrees (to the proposed procedure) and pledges that it will negotiate a settlement within the framework of the board's recommendations."

The union requested Eisenhower to reconvene the three-man board of inquiry immediately to carry out the union's proposal.

Under the law, the board was barred from making recommendations for settlement.

But McDonald said he thought that ban could be removed if steel management officials agreed to his suggestion.

"It is my sincere belief that if this program is followed,"

McDonald wrote the president, "there will be a prompt settlement of the steel dispute—a settlement fair to the public, to the workers and to the industry."

Teamsters to Ignore Most Picket Lines

CHICAGO (AP)—James R. Hoffa says Teamsters' Union members in the future will ignore—with one exception—all picket lines set up by other unions.

"All Teamsters' locals will have orders," Hoffa, Teamsters president, told reporters Wednesday, "to drive through recognition, organizational and primary picket lines."

"The Teamsters will make an exception on primary picket lines if the striking union will guarantee the Teamsters against any possible loss through lawsuits, government action or any other expense incurred by the teamsters."

A primary strike is one called by a union recognized under law as the collective bargaining agent for workers at a specified company.

Veteran Sudbury Looks In At Victoria Between Jobs

The Sudbury I is churning northward toward the Queen Charlotte Islands after completing another in its long succession of ocean towing jobs. The veteran tugboat reached home port, after completing the 2,091-mile voyage from Honolulu in just under nine days, and within three hours had sailed again with a new crew.

A spokesman for Island Tug and Barge Ltd. said the tugboat will be assigned to towing log barges between the Queen Charlottes and Vancouver until Christmas.

Sudbury I docked shortly after 4 p.m. Wednesday after completing a two-month voyage which took her to San Francisco for an aircraft carrier which she towed to mid-Pacific.

The bulky tow was transferred off Hawaii to her bigger and more powerful sister-ship, Sudbury II, which is completing the tow to a Japanese port.

Capt. Ed Cox, skipper of the Sudbury I, said his ship made good time both with the tow and on the homeward leg of the voyage when she battled high seas and gales.

"We had bad weather most of the way home," the skipper said on his return. "The first three days out of Honolulu we struck heavy seas which made living conditions pretty grim. But we still managed to make pretty good time."

Payola Probe Widens

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Communications Commission took an unprecedented step yesterday aimed at cracking down on payola and deceptive advertising practices on radio and television.

It did so by ordering every radio and television station in the U.S. to submit within 30 days complete information on the financing of its programs.

The request for the information was contained in a letter sent to all of the 5,236 radio and television stations licensed by the FCC. The action clearly stemmed from the recent congressional disclosures of TV quiz show scandals and a coming investigation of "payola," the practice of paying disc jockeys to play certain records on the air.

Payola or any other type of hidden commercial practice is illegal under the Communications Act of 1934 which created the FCC to police the broadcasting industry. Anyone found guilty of breaking this law could face a maximum penalty of $10,000 or one year in prison or both.

Sharing the spotlight on the stamps of the future will be a Canadian symbol. It may vary with each denomination.

Hamilton said that at least two of the new series will be issued in 1960.

Russia Mild on Algeria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia poured soothing salve on the Algerian controversy Thursday by saying that French President Charles de Gaulle can play an important role in settling the five-year-old war.

Soviet Ambassador Arkady Sobolev delivered what was probably the mildest speech yet given on the Algerian issue by a Russian representative when he addressed the General Assembly's 82-member political committee.

Diplomats said Sobolev's conciliatory approach probably resulted from the forthcoming visit of Soviet Premier Khrushchev to Paris next year.

Mrs. Margaret Katharine Ferguson-Pollock, 88, who narrowly escaped death in two major disasters, died Wednesday in St. Mary's Priory.

Born in 1871 in England, she was a resident of Duncan for 19 years, and was a former resident of Salt Spring Island.

On May 27, 1896, in Victoria, Mrs. Ferguson-Pollock and a companion left Electric Car 16 to make a forgotten purchase only seconds before the overloaded vehicle plunged into the Inner Harbor with the collapse of the Point Ellice bridge. Some 60 persons died.

In 1903 Mrs. Pollock was a resident of Field, B.C. On April 30 she paid a visit to friends in Frank, Alta., and was there when part of Turtle Mountain was shaken loose and wiped out almost the entire village. Sixty persons were killed.

She is survived by a son, Robert Hew Ferguson-Pollock of Chemainus; also nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday in Sands' Funeral Home, Colwood. Cremation will follow.

Sidney W. Raven
Funeral services were held recently in Vancouver for Sidney Wilson Raven, 76, a former chief accountant for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, and a resident of Victoria for 34 years.

Mr. Raven was chief accountant for the construction department of the PGE, and worked previously as an auditor in the provincial government finance department.

He came to Victoria in 1919, and left in 1953 to retire to Vancouver.

Winnipeg (CP)—Trading was on the slow side on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Exporters and shippers were responsible for some activity in flax. Small shipments were reported for Japan and the United Kingdom. Prices scored moderate advances in early trading but a selling tendency appeared later on advances.

BIG GAS FUTURE

Natural gas will have an important and growing influence on the Canadian economy according to the monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

The Bank believes that although there may be some delays the export proposals now being considered will eventually be permitted, and it sees in the near future gas exports running to $100,000,000 a year.

In addition to the bright export picture, the Bank notes that gas is also providing an economic clean fuel in the ## domestic market. Since 1956 the number of Canadian gas users has doubled, and it is now over 1,000,000.

In view of strong demands both in Canada and the United States, the Canadian gas industry can, in the opinion of the bank, look forward to a bright future.

BANK RATE RISES

The Bank of Canada's re-discount rate rose slightly to 5.18 per cent yesterday, an advance from 5.11 per cent a week ago.

The rate this week was based on the sale of $100,000,000 of 91-day treasury bills at 98.876 for an average yield of 5.3 per cent.

OIL OUTLOOK CLEARS

Despite stock market pessimism, profits are on the way up in the Canadian petroleum industry according to J. R. Yarnell, treasurer of B.A. Oil Company Ltd.

He told Winnipeg investment dealers that in comparison with 1958 an earnings improvement of 10 to 15 per cent was being accomplished this year.

The oil industry had reduced capital spending until the market began to catch up with its capacity, and this point would be reached shortly. He expected crude oil production in Canada to rise to 570,000 barrels a day in 1960.

BANFF TO VANCOUVER

Colin C. McCartney, who has been manager of the Banff Springs Hotel for the past 11 years has been appointed associate manager of the Hotel Vancouver, and will become manager on March 1, 1960, when Marcus H. Brown, the present manager retires.

McIntyre Buys Two Companies

TORONTO (CP)—McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd. Thursday acquired both Bellette and Quebec and Castle-Threthwey mines after special meetings were called to dissolve the two smaller companies.

McIntyre will pay $13,354,049 for the assets of Castle and will pay off its liabilities. Price for Bellette was $3,333,062, not including cash mining properties, plant equipment and shares in subsidiary and affiliated companies.

In addition to the bright export picture, the Bank notes that gas is also providing an economic clean fuel in the

Vast Game Park Urged for B.C.

Dr. Adam Szczawinski provincial botanist believes development of a giant game reserve must be started soon in Northern British Columbia.

"I think that before developing the natural resources of our northern country we should set aside an area for the protection of our wildlife," he said in an interview here Thursday night.

It was understood the B.C. government now has under consideration a survey made recently of the Cassiar valley and plateau in the Telegraph Creek district, 800 miles north-west of Vancouver, which might be used as a game reserve.

9,000,000 ACRES

The United States, said Dr. Szczawinski, now is establishing a game reserve on 9,000,000 acres in the southeast section of Alaska adjacent to the B.C. border. He believed the Canadian government "would like to extend that reserve into Canada so that B.C.'s could possibly join it."

The Cassiar valley is an immense area in northern B.C. which is famous for its big game. Because of the abundance of wildlife there, it is a "vital and critical" area.

Dr. Szczawinski explained that the idea of such a reserve was not wholly his. The conservation and recreation department is also aware of the need for a park in the north.

"The bigger it is, the better it will be," he said.

"But it must be supervised and controlled so that the interests of the animals comes first. Hunters, trappers, campers and farmers would be allowed access only by permit."

All of B.C.'s provincial parks are game reserves but they are open to the public for recreational purposes.

Farmers should be dissuaded from settling the area because farm animals would ruin the vegetation and drive off the wildlife for which the reserve is primarily intended.

"We must... protect the vegetation," he said, "because it supports the wildlife."

Development of power on the Peace River "would not interfere" with the successful management of a large game reserve in the area and extraction of natural resources could be performed "if properly supervised."

"I am absolutely convinced such a reserve will be opened and in it all animals and vegetation protected."

"The price of natural resources like gold can come down but the price of nature will always go up."

Sooke Plans Dance On New Year's Eve

A Sooke Community Association spokesman announced yesterday that a New Year's Eve dance will be staged in the Sooke Community Hall in an effort to bolster the sagging All Sooke Day bankroll.

George Hay, a director of the association, said sponsorship of the dance will be the first concrete step towards revitalizing the All Sooke Day.

summer event which draws thousands of Greater Victorians and tourists.

Dancing will commence at 9 p.m. on New Year's Eve and, according to Mr. Hay, will continue until "everybody goes home."

A buffet dinner of turkey will be included in the price of the tickets, $8 per couple, and a licensed bar will be available.

Firemen Rip Wall To Quell Flames

An overheated basement coal-fired furnace yesterday caused an estimated $300 damage to the home of Roy Tuttle, 9755 West Saanich Road.

Sidney firemen had to rip out an interior wall from floor to ceiling to extinguish the fire which broke out above a hot air register between a hallway and front bedroom.

Mr. Tuttle was not home when his wife and children discovered the fire at 7 p.m. and called for help. Their telephone was attached to the burning wall and Mrs. Tuttle said she had hard time dialing the fire department because of the intense heat.

Neighbors fought the blaze until firemen arrived.

Courthouse Excavation Contract Awarded

Provincial public works department has awarded contract for excavation for the new Victoria courthouse to Commonwealth Construction Company, lowest of five bidders with a tender of $92,655.

A symbolic start on construction of the long-awaited courthouse on Cathedral Hill will be made Wednesday afternoon when Works Minister Chant pushes a plunger to fire the first charge of dynamite.

Victoria Skindiver To Try Luck in Yukon

The lure of the north and the possibility of using skin-diving techniques in recovering placer gold from Yukon streams will take a native Victoria man, Harry G. Cross, to Whitehorse.

Mr. Cross, author of a skin-divers' column which appeared in The Daily Colonist during the summer and fall months, will leave the city for the Yukon shortly.

He said yesterday he will take his skin-diving equipment with him in an effort to find new pockets of gold in Yukon.

rivers after the spring break-up.

"I believe that young men should go north to find opportunity these days, and I really want to try the prospecting game in the light of skin-diving techniques," he said.

Successful applications of the use of skin-diving in locating and recovering placer gold have taken place along the Fraser River in British Columbia, and in certain California streams, he added.

For the past year he has been an active member of the Victoria Reef Divers Club, an organization of city skin-divers.

Alaska In Peril

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief of Alaska's defenses was quoted yesterday as saying that "as things now stand, it would take only two enemy bombers to put Alaskan bases out of action."

Flying Magazine, a trade publication, quoted Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong Jr., commander of Alaska's joint services defence force, as adding: "If these attacks were followed up with paratroop landings, Alaska itself would be lost."

People Desperate

Hungry Rats Capture Town

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP)—A scourge of rats, evidently hundreds of thousands of them, is plaguing Sansare in eastern Guatemala. The people there are desperate.

Entire crops of rice, beans and vegetables have disappeared. The rats have been increasing steadily in number during the last three weeks.

Some of the inhabitants complain that it is next to impossible to sleep.

"They come at sunset and disappear at dawn," Mrs. Carmen R. de Zaccarias, owner of one of the best stores in the little city, explained.

"I find them comfortably asleep in the drawers of my desk," says Mayor Daniel Rios Hernandez. "The worst part is that traps are useless, poison they ignore and what is worse—all our cats are dead, to the last one! The fumigation killed all the fleas and cock-

Green Here to Talk Columbia Project

Canada voted against a French test proposal at United Nations last week and in the process incurred the wrath of President de Gaulle.

In international affairs, said Mr. Green, "there is a relaxation of tension."

EVERYONE VISITING

It was precipitated, he said, by the visit of British Prime Minister Macmillan to Moscow and by Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

"Everybody's visiting everybody else these days," he said.

Asked if a Khrushchev visit to Canada was a possibility, he pointed out that an invitation was extended at the time of the Soviet leader's U.S. visit, but admitted it was made on short notice.

On disarmament he said "the only alternative to doing something is a nuclear war, and I don't think any responsible nation wants that."

MOVE ENDORSED

Mr. Green swiftly leaped to the defence of Canada's abstention from a United Nations vote censuring South Africa for its apartheid policy against colored nationals.

"Attacking fellow members in a commonwealth is not a very good way to keep the commonwealth together," he said, pointing out that the abstention does not necessarily mean that Canada approves of apartheid.

He pointed out that the United Kingdom voted with South Africa on the measure although its feelings towards racial discrimination of any sort is well known.

"We have been criticized for this but I think we did the right thing."

BRINGS TEAM

Here with Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton, Gen. A. G. McNaughton, chairman of the international joint commission studying the Columbia, and a handful of advisers, Mr. Green tomorrow will sit down with a pair of B.C. cabinet ministers to work out a definition of what downstream benefits from the U.S. will actually consist of.

He said the meetings are designed "to work out a cooperative method for development of the Columbia."

The federal government, he pointed out, has a "licencing authority" over development of the river because it is an international waterway.

Talks between the federal and provincial governments have been marked by "co-operation," he said.

BEST FOR B.C.

Mr. Green refused to become embroiled in the Columbia-versus-Peace River power controversy other than to say that the Columbia, because it will be a public venture, will be best for B.C.

He conceded, however, that the existence of the Peace River project had served as a lever for members of the international joint commission in extracting downstream benefits concession from the U.S.

Asked if a surplus of power from the Peace River project might not postpone work on the Columbia, he replied: "The people of B.C. will have to answer that for themselves."

CAN'T WAIT

He said he assumes that British Columbia wants a "full steam ahead" program for the Columbia.

To a suggestion that the state of the money market might make this a poor time to borrow money for the Columbia plan, he replied "these things can't wait."

The threat of nuclear thermal power looms over all hydro proposals, he pointed out, saying of the Columbia potential, "it certainly isn't going to last forever."

Asked if the federal government would relax its power export restrictions on behalf of Peace River Power, the external affairs minister replied that the restrictions "would probably not be modified to suit one group of promoters."

ONLY ONE REASON

Such a move could only come, he added, if it was in the national interest, and "it is certainly not of Canada-wide interest at the moment."

Mr. Green and his party were scheduled to meet with Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and Attorney-General Robert Bonner this morning. He plans to leave for Vancouver later today.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Max Baer, unfortunately but, perhaps deservedly, will be remembered by many as a blithe spirit rather than as a fighter. It is, however, a matter of record that he could fight and but for a distaste for training might have been rated with the all-time greats among the heavyweights.

A giant 220-pounder, Baer had a tremendous punch, fast hands, natural ring ability and he could take punishment. Had he been born with the outlook of Jack Dempsey he would probably have been as good as the Manassa Mauler ever was, perhaps even better.

Baer met the best of his day. He fought Tom Heeney twice, winning once by a knockout and once on a decision. He defeated Ernie Schaaf and Johnny Risko, knocked out Tony Galento, knocked out and decisioned Kingfish Levinsky and even when he was far past his prime, split two decisions with Tommy Farr.

His greatest moment came in New York on June 8, 1933. That was the night he knocked out Max Schmeling, battering the German so mercilessly that the referee had to stop the fight after 10 rounds. Schmeling was only 28 then and at his best. He was 33 when Joe Louis practically annihilated him with that one-punch, first-round knockout.

Even in his greatest moment, Baer was never out of character. The Schmeling fight was only seconds old when Baer was hit flush on the jaw by a smashing right. He backed off, grabbed his jaw in mock distress, then moved in and clobbered Schmeling with a return right that forced the latter to clinch.

The clinch took place just above where Joe Williams, New York sports columnist, was sitting. In a pre-fight column Williams had announced that he was taking some of the 2-1 odds being offered on Schmeling. Flattery predicted that Baer would win.

Baer had apparently read the column. He looked down at Williams, winked and said: "You can start counting it now." Then he proceeded to take Schmeling apart.

In the 10th round, Baer decked Schmeling for nine and the German staggered upright, turned his back and wobbled to the ropes, out on his feet.

"The poor guy is looking for the next boat to Germany," Baer whooped. But, Williams recounts, when Schmeling did leave for Germany a few days later, Baer was one of the few Americans to show up and wish him bon voyage.

More than two years later, on Sept. 24, 1935, Louis gave Baer a tremendous beating, the fight ending in the fourth round with Baer, still in character, on his hands and knees, grinning goofily and waving a soggy glove at the crowd.

Many believed that Baer "quit" in this fight but Louis was to say that Baer was his toughest opponent—"the man took more punishment than anybody I ever fought."

Baer showed no resentment at all when he was asked directly the next day if he did quit.

"Of course I quit," he replied. "I could have taken a lot more and got myself killed but for murder my admirers' will have to pay more than $50 ringside."

Baer never again accomplished the condition he had when he beat Schmeling. He knocked out Primo Carnera in 1934 to win the heavyweight championship, lost it a year later in his first defence when he was decisioned by Jim Braddock.

After the Louis fight, he did manage to split with Farr and knock out Galento, after being knocked out by Lou Nova. But when Nova repeated the treatment on April 4, 1941, Baer's ring career was at an end.

In between fights Baer could be found most often in a night club, his table loaded with refreshments and surrounded by refreshing members of the opposite sex.

"They say I'm my own worst enemy," Baer would roar when he noted an acquaintance. "Maybe I am but imagine all the people who envy me."

It may be the view of many to pity a fellow who had wasted such a great talent, even if the talent was only the ability to knock someone's block off, but, you know, the fellow was right.

Washington Betting Up

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Horse race fans bet nearly $22,000,000 through the pari-mutuel windows at Longacres and Playfair tracks last summer, the state horse racing commission reported Thursday.

The total pari-mutuel take at the two tracks of $21,979,598 was $1,726,000 more than was wagered during the 1958 racing season.

(Canada's "Mr. Curling," Ken Watson of Winnipeg, is covering the Canadian curling scene for The Colonist. This is the first in a series of 30 articles.)

With the advent of several swanky curling-golf layouts in Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver, plus the opening of commercial curling coliseums like the Tamo-Shanter in Toronto, the Curling Club in Regina and other pay-as-you-play rinks, a new era has dawned for the Royal and Ancient game.

The enthusiasm of thousands of newcomers is expanding the girth of curling to a point where it threatens to "burst its britches." When countless golfers, who have benefited by the aid of professional instruction, turn their idle hands in winter to the intricacies of a new game on ice with rocks and brooms, they too are anxious to learn the rudiments in 10 easy lessons and want none but the best to teach them. Thus "professionalism," a term distasteful to many of the older defenders of the idea that curling is an amateur sport, has raised its unfamiliar head.

As long as curling was conducted at a quiescent level and practised quietly behind closed doors by the brotherhood, with only a few new members initiated into the secret rites each year, there was no need for paid instructors. But in the past 10 years the tidal wave of curling interest has swept a multitude of new curlers into the 2,000 clubs and there is no sign of the crest being wheeled yet.

Whether we like it or not the professional instructors are badly needed in curling today to cope with the insatiable demands of new players who do not want the trial-and-error method of learning. If Canada's buoyant economy continues we are going to see a fair sprinkling of "pros" over the country during the next few years.

Garnet and Don Campbell of the famous Avonlea rink were the first to face the shrieks of anguish that emanated from official brass when they arrived in Toronto two years ago. Now they have been joined by several other young Saskatchewan shot-makers of renown who entered the game through high school curling. Mike Secord and Stan Larson listened to the beckoning financial fingers of the East, as described by Don Campbell while the three of them were going about the business of winning sparkling new automobiles at Swift Current late last winter, and accepted posts.

Now to the big question—should these curling pros be allowed to enter district and provincial competitions? The answer is an unequivocal—Yes! Here are the reasons:

First, professionalism in curling cannot be compared with a similar occupation in golf. Curling is a team game requiring the expert play of four men to win any major competition, and as a club cannot normally afford the luxury of more than one pro, any team representing it will not be playing with a packed rink (or a limit of one pro per team could be imposed).

Secondly, the paid instructor or manager is usually so absorbed in his duties that his participation in bonspiels will be limited; therefore his effectiveness reduced. For my money a curler who has an occupation that allows him to curl all winter, and live on the bonspiel trail has a greater right to be tabbed a professional than a busy curling instructor or rink manager.

In addition, a capable coach needs an occasional opportunity to keep his own game in respectable condition if he is to be an effective teacher of the finer points of strategy and play.

As soon as curling professionals reach the status of the travelling golf pros who play in money tournaments, then the rule-makers will have to act. But that is years away.

In the meantime, our ever-increasing number of curlers need badly the services of professional instructors to get them off to the right start. Heaven only knows that the mortality rate was among newcomers under the old system of "This is the in-turn and here is the out-turn. Go ahead and shoot!" Hundreds of frustrated newcomers quit after one agonizing season.

Let's not get too concerned about this handful of paid instructors playing in top-flight competition. Their presence will do curling more good than harm. (Telegram News Service)

Cougars Extended By Trail Smoke Eaters But Triumph, 7-5

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League were forced to the limit Tuesday night in subduing Trail Smoke Eaters of the Western International Hockey League 7-5.

Cougars are in second place in the professional WHL while Trail holds a wide edge atop the amateur WHL standings. The teams were tied 2-2 after one period with the Cougars moving ahead 5-4 in the second. In the last period Cougars scored two of the three goals.

TWO FOR 'FASH'
Gordie Fashway, all-time top goal-scorer in the WHL, paced Cougars with two goals. Single markers came from the sticks of Arnie Schmutz, Gord Haworth, Ron Matthews, Doug Macauley and Al Nicholson.

Laurie Bursaw scored twice for Smoke Eaters. Addy Tambellini, Gerry Penner and Hal Jones added one each.

Schmutz broke away from a Trail gangling attack to open the scoring early in the first period, but Trail came back with two quick goals by Bursaw and Tambellini to take a 2-1 margin.

SMARTEST GOAL

Haworth tied the score at 17:30 on the smartest goal of the night. The veteran centre split the Trail defence and powered a hard shot into the goal as he fell to the ice.

Smoke Eaters again took the lead with Penner scoring 55 seconds into the second period. Matthews tied the score on an unassisted effort but Hal Jones came back with Trail's fourth marker.

The lead lasted 18 seconds as Macauley slammed in a shot during a scramble. Fashway put Victoria ahead to stay at 13:04 with the first of his goals.

He then counted Cougars' winning goal at 14:14 of the third.

Art Hughes Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Soccer Commission Thursday suspended all-star centre-forward Art Hughes of Firefighters of the mainland league for one game.

The action followed Hughes' banishment from a Nov. 21 match at Norquay Park for protesting a referee's decision too vigorously.

Hughes, the PCL's most valuable player in the 1959 summer season, is considered a shoo-in for the B.C. all-star squad which will meet a touring Scottish team in May and is a strong contender for a Canadian team which plays a home-away series with Moscow next summer.

Everything Goes Wrong

Night to Remember For Doug Harvey

MONTREAL—"It's a night I'll always remember," said Doug Harvey to followers of the Montreal Canadiens who had just honored him with approximately $12,000 in gifts.

And it's not likely that he will ever forget it. Harvey, who became one of the National Hockey League's greatest defencemen after real 1-0 at Toronto Wednesday night to break the streak. Montreal had not lost before Forum fans since Oct. 17 when the same Rangers defeated Canadiens 4-2. For New York it was only the Rangers' fourth win of the season and the first since Al Pike took over from Phil Watson as coach.

For Harvey, presented with a Chevrolet station wagon and other assorted gifts that included an electric refrigerator, a dishwasher, electric stove, deep freeze and hi-fi set, the game was one of his poorest since he entered the NHL 13 years ago.

The perennial all-star received the gifts between the second and third periods. New York led 5-3 at the time and Harvey had been on the ice for all the goals against his team.

NET NIGHTMARE
The game was a nightmare for Montreal goalie Jacques Plante. Since donning his controversial face mask, he had given up only 13 goals in 11 games.

Last night he gave up as many goals as he had allowed in the club's last seven games. He stopped 26 of 33 Ranger shots.

As if Canadiens had not had enough for one night, they lost veteran defenceman Tom Johnson in the second period with a possible separation of the left shoulder. He was sent to hospital but there was no immediate record available.

Pacing the goal-hungry Rangers were Dean Prentice and light-scoring Eddie Shack. Both had two goals. Singles went to defencemen John Hanna, Larry Popein and Ken Schinkel.

Ralph Backstrom, Henri Richard, Phil Goyette and Dick Moore scored for Canadiens who failed to show any life until New York led 7-3.

Rangers broke a 2-2 tie with three second period goals. Shack, a bust as a highly-publicized rookie last year and who was sent to the minors earlier this season, scored twice within 33 seconds after Prentice had put Rangers ahead 3-2 at 5:28 on a play with Brian Cullen and recent Vancouver Canuck Bob Kabe.

Shack's first goal came on a bullet shot at 9:24 that went between Plante's skate and the post. His second at 9:57 was a high, hard shot that Plante ducked on.

The win lifted New York out of the cellar and into fifth place, one point ahead of Chicago Black Hawks.

New York-Goli: Plante, defencemen: Howard, Foligno, Barlowen, Kabe, Prentice, Sullivan, Henson.

Husky on All-Stars

Bob Schloredt, who lost the right of an eye in a fireworks accident as a child, was named Wednesday as quarterback of the Associated Press All-American football team after leading University of Washington Huskies to a berth in the 1960 Rose Bowl.

Schloredt is the first Washington All-American since Don Heinrich made it in 1952. Heinrich, former Bremerton passing wizard, is now a pro with the New York Giants of the National Football League. Other members of the AP team are: ends, Marlin McKeever, Southern California, and Fred Mautino, Syracuse; tackles, Dan Lanphear, Wisconsin, and Don Floyd, Texas Christian; guards, Bill Burrell, Illinois, and Roger Davis, Syracuse; centre, Maxie Baughan, Georgia Tech; backs, Billy Cannon, Louisiana State, Jim Mooty, Arkansas, and Charlie Flowers, Mississippi.

Schloredt, 19, has played more than any member on the Washington team this year, logging 455 minutes as the club rolled up a 9-1 record.

Washington's only loss was a 22-15 setback to Southern California. A junior from Freshman, Ore., Schloredt led the Huskies in passing, total offense, scoring and kicking. He scored 13 of Washington's 29 touchdowns and completed 39 of 75 passes for 733 net yards and had only two interceptions.

In addition to his passing yardage, Schloredt picked up 255 yards on the ground for a total offense of 988 yards. He kicked 32 times for an average of 40 yards and made six interceptions himself.

Scotch Cup For Curlers March 18-23

EDINBURGH (CP)—Canada's top curling rink, to be chosen at the Canadian championships in Fort William, Ont., March 7 to 11, will meet the entry of Scotland's Royal Caledonian Curling club in the 1960 Scotch Cup matches late in March, it was announced Thursday.

First two matches in the five-game series will be played in Ayr and Edinburgh March 18 and 21, with the last three in Glasgow, March 22 and 23.

The Royal Caledonian Club has advanced its playoff to coincide with the Canadian championships so its own winner may participate. Previously a special playoff was necessary.

Last winter Regina's Ernie Richardson rink took the inaugural Scotch Cup in straight games.

Vancouver Team Upset Lord Byng

By LARRY ROSE

First provincial final of the high school athletic season, highlights local weekend activity with time-worn Oak Bay of Victoria making a bid for the B.C. rugby title against little-known David Thompson School of Vancouver.

A large crowd is expected Saturday afternoon at Car-narvon Park, where coach Don Oliver's Oak Bay team attempts to avenge two successive losses to Vancouver teams in the B.C. final.

Providing the opposition for this year's Howard Russell Cup winners will be a team that only this season entered senior rugby for the first time. David Thompson High School was opened two years ago and competed in a junior league last season.

The school capped a spectacular debut in senior competition 10 days ago by knocking off mighty Lord Byng to earn a berth in the final. Lord Byng had beaten Oak Bay two years running for the provincial crown and the R. P. Woodward Trophy.

Leading David Thompson in Saturday's game will be fleet outside-centre Larry Bechard and scrum-half Roy Cummings.

Oak Bay coach Oliver, looking for his first B.C. crown after 11 years with the senior club, has several players who could spell trouble for the visitors. Captain Doug Gilmour rates as the top threat mainly because of his kicking ability that carried Oak Bay to the final. Others are Tony Else and Bob Turner.

Game time tomorrow is 2.30.

Mount View and Esquimalt will be the scene of tonight's inter-high basketball double-headers.

Feature game at Mount View will be unbeaten Oak Bay meet the host club at 8.30 while defending champion Victoria High Totems play last-place Milne's Landing in a 7.15 preliminary.

Games at Esquimalt pit the Dockers against Royal Oak in the feature and St. Louis College against Belmont in the preliminary.

Following this weekend's action, most high school sports will suspend league play until early January. Students begin Christmas holidays Dec. 18.

Girls' senior basketball opened this week with Mount Douglas establishing itself as an early-season favorite by trouncing rival Mount View 58-7.

Competition for the Colonist Cup begins Jan. 20 with the opening of the senior soccer league. Seven teams will participate. Victoria High, Belmont, Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Mount Douglas, Mount View and Milne's Landing are the teams.

Oak Bay will enter a second team that will not be eligible for the Colonist Cup playoff.

An exhibition game played Wednesday saw Victoria High edge Oak Bay 3-1.

Mount Douglas seniors downed Mount View juniors 9-6 in exhibition rugby.

Read Comes Back As Rowing Coach

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frank Read, the man credited with lifting University of British Columbia rowing crews into world prominence, has agreed to return to the job, it was learned Thursday.

The 46-year-old Read saw his eighth defeat Russia in 1955 in an amazing upset at the Henley-on-Thames, then finish second to the United States in the final.

In the 1956 Olympics, the UBC fours took the gold medal and the eights the silver.

Read had coached the UBC crews from 1950. In January of 1958 he announced his retirement, saying his hotel business would not allow him the time for coaching.

During the lengthy negotiations with UBC in recent weeks, it was learned that Read was holding out for some concessions by UBC athletic officials.

These were not detailed, but it was understood they involved training time and equipment—things Read considers vital to get the UBC crews to the Olympic Games in Rome next August.

His job will be on a voluntary basis, just as it was in his earlier years as UBC coach.

Fourth Place Prize For Saturday Game

Either Brodies or Saanich Thistles will move up to fourth place Saturday afternoon when the clubs meet at Royal Athletic Park in the Victoria and District Soccer League's feature weekend game.

With a game in hand over seven clubs and two over both Evcoes and Haneys, Saanich could take full advantage of the situation by beating Brodies.

Four games are scheduled Sunday. Esquimalt hosts Lady-

Poles Laud Brothers

Warwicks Still 'Hit'

WARSAW (CP)—Canada's three Warwick brothers, now on a month-long visit to Poland to teach Poles Canadian-type hockey, scored well with the fans in their first rink appearance.

The brothers—Grant, 38, Bill, 35, and Dick, 31—were the stars of the Gornik team of Katowice Wednesday night in a game against Hagaluuds Stockholm.

Cornik won 6-1 in what was the first of three games in a tournament staged as part of the annual St. Barbara Day celebrations in the Katowice mining area.

Commenting on the game, Trybuna Ludu, the Communist party newspaper, said: "By their play, the Canadians thrilled Silesian ice hockey lovers... the Warwick brothers did not represent as high a level as they did a few years ago, but even so what they demonstrated could have satisfied the demands of the greatest experts of ice hockey. They made an especially strong impression with their sharp and accurate passing and their highly developed technique."

Another newspaper, Zycie Warszawy, commented: "The Warwicks did not disappoint. The intricacy of their game often brought gasps of admiration. The only criticism is that they did not seem to begin top physical form and are not too fast."

amateur Gornik club and The Polish Hockey Federation. Polish hockey fans hope they will leave behind enough tips and ideas for Polish coaches to produce a strong contender for the 1961 world championship.

They first heard of the Warwicks when the brothers led Penticton Vs to a slam-bang victory in the 1955 world championship.

Japanese Baseball Shows Improvement

TOKYO (AP)—Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, one of America's top baseball personalities, said Thursday that if Japanese baseball continues its present pace of improvement it may reach American major league level in the next ten years.

"I was amazed at the rapid growth of Japanese baseball," said O'Doul, now batting coach for San Francisco Giants, before his departure for the United States.

One indication of the improvement, he said, is that American major league teams visiting Japan in recent years have been given some tough competition.

O'Doul, one time star of New York Giants, has signed a contract with Japan's Yomiuri newspaper for a Japanese exhibition tour next autumn by San Francisco Giants.

Keep Off the Grass Minor Soccer Clubs!

Kellert, Frazier Off to Spokane

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—General Manager Spencer Harris of the Spokane club in the Pacific Coast League announced Thursday that he has obtained first baseman Frank Kellert and outfielder Joe Frazier from Vancouver in exchange for three players.

The three players traded to Vancouver were pitcher Lloyd Merritt and Phil Paine and infielder Fred Hatfield. All five players in the deal are former major leaguers. Spokane is a Los Angeles Dodger farm club.

Whites Must Win One

Oak Bay Whites have suddenly found themselves in a position where they must win Saturday's Victoria Rugby Union game against HMCS Venture or all but face elimination from the battle for first place.

After winning four straight to open the season, Oak Bay has now lost four in a row and trail league-leading James Bay by six points. A win Saturday for Whites would move them to within two points of second-place Oak Bay Reds.

Whites also hope to protect their third-place position. If Venture win, the sailors would advance to fourth place and would be only a single point back of Whites.

Game time Saturday is 1 p.m.

A scheduled game between

James Bay and Victoria College has been cancelled. Oak Bay and Venture clash at 1 p.m. The early starting time is to enable players of these clubs to take in the B.C. high school final between Victoria's Oak Bay and Vancouver's David Thompson.

His Muses Play with Every-Day

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—John Betjeman is a poet rare. He sings of common things. There must be something to his art, for poets, though a race apart, have always struggled to exist, yet Betjeman's on the sellers list.

Today, a shy and charming man, he spent in looking back—along the years that made of him "a poet and a hack." The quote is not this writer's view—it's Betjeman's listing in "Who's Who."

For such his popularity that though he's only 53 he's writing his biography, between appearing on TV.

("Miss J. Hunter Dunn, Miss J. Hunter Dunn
"Furnish'd and burnish'd by Aldershot sun,

"What strenuous singles we played after tea
"We in the tournament—you against me...")
This isn't quite the poets' age; reality is all the rage, and U.S. novels, sex-obsessed, are still the books that sell the best. Yet Betjeman manages to get such fans as Princess Margaret, with rhymes about the world that lies before his sharp, observant eyes.

It won him last year's Poetry Prize.
("Love-thirty, love-forty, Oh! weakness of joy,
"The speed of a swallow, the grace of a boy,
"With carefulest carelessness, gaily you won,
"I am weak from your loveliness, Joan Hunter Dunn...")

How come, I asked, rhymes so demure outsell the tortured and obscure:

"I have no theory," he said—of course he did not speak in rhyme—"why I should be so popular. Perhaps my verse is for the time. You see, I find my muses play with things that happen every day, although I can be hard and gritty—have you read my verse 'The City?'—Business men with awkward hips and dirty jokes upon their lips."

"Some verse one reads into one's self, and some of this stays on the shelf. The kind of meters that I write are meant to tempt one to recite...
("We sat in the car park till twenty to one "And now I'm engaged to Miss Joan Hunter Dunn")

Let others sing the soaring lark, the Grecian urn, the woodland park, John Betjeman hymns the water tank—and has a balance at the bank.

Lost Island Right in Bay All the Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Island 115-A, a half-acre dot of land in Georgian Bay, is right there waiting for its new owner, Mrs. Richard Meyer of Bethesda, Md., a government official said Thursday.

R. J. Sullivan of the Indian affairs branch said, however, that Mrs. Meyer apparently has not tried to find it since she purchased it early this fall.

He was commenting on a Toronto story Tuesday quoting Mrs. Meyer, a native of Toronto, as saying she bought the island but couldn't find it despite a search with boat and guide last August.

"In her case we went to every length to show her where it was," Mr. Sullivan said. She had been given an aerial photograph, with the island circled on it.

Castle Builder's Great-Grandson Will Help Preserve Craigdarroch

James G. P. Audain, great-grandson of Hon. Robert Duns-muir, who built Craigdarroch Castle in the late 1880s, has been elected first vice-president of the newly-formed Society for the Preservation and Maintenance of Craigdarroch Castle.

Organizational meeting was held in the castle's former 50-guest dining room, now the meeting place of the Greater Victoria school board.

Mr. Audain's mother was Sarah Byrd (Birdie), eldest of the eight daughters of Robert Duns-muir's elder son, Hon. James Duns-muir, B.C. Premier (1900-02) and Lieutenant-Governor (1960-09), and his father was Maj. Guy Mortimore Audain.

The Duns-muir-Audain wedding in 1901 was at "Burleigh," the James Duns-muir mansion on the banks of the Gorge, and was the most brilliant high-society event of its generation.

First president of the Castle Society, recently registered under the Societies Act, is James K. Nesbitt, 1956-59 chairman, Victoria section, B.C. Historical Association, well-known contributor of historical articles to the Colonist's Sunday Islander magazine, and Victoria College evening class lecturer on Victoria and B.C. history.

Second vice-president is Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan; secretary is Mrs. Kenneth C. Drury; treasurer is Peter N. Cotton. Other members of the executive are Mayor P. B. Scurrah, Miss Inez Mitchell, Richard B. George, Mrs. Edith Luney and J. Courtney Haddock.

Nature Must Aid Art

By M. Y. CHESNUT, FRHS

The growing interest in floral art and flower arranging is having a profound effect upon our gardens these days. At one time, we men were permitted to buy and plant our flowering shrubs with an eye to their effect on the landscape. Nowadays we must consult first with the floral art addict in the family, and approval is granted only when the proposed shrub is capable of providing sprays of flowers for interesting indoor arrangements.

Fortunately, there are lots of good shrubs and small trees which are good performers in both roles—a showpiece for the garden and a source of cut flowers; and one of the best is the Snowy Mesquitol, Amelanchier canadensis, which covers itself with delicate white blossoms in April.

Flower arrangers go quite mad about this subject, for its sprays are so attractive and can be used in so many different ways. Cut in the bud stage, with the ends split or crushed, these branches last a surprisingly long time in water. The young leaves are a lovely bronzy tint, and in the autumn they turn a brilliant crimson.

The Barberry family provides not only blossoms and berries, but glorious foliage as well, and the better the soil, the better the quality of the sprays for cut flower work. Probably the most useful in this respect is the Oregon Grape, Mahonia aquifolium, with holly-like foliage in a beautiful glossy green in spring, with a more bronzy cast in fall and winter. The blossoms are lemon yellow, quite showy and very fragrant, and these are followed by edible blue berries.

Sprays of Mahonia can add considerable interest and distinction to any arrangement, either in the blossom or berry stages. The foliage in its bronze stage is a wonderful mixer with chrysanthemums or the shaggy dahlias.

I have mentioned before the value of catkin sprays from filbert trees in floral arrangements. Naturally, the nut crop is going to suffer if the floral art addicts pinch all the male catkins, but there is another shrub with catkins which can be robbed without loss. This is the male form of Garrya elliptica, named for Nicholas Garry, secretary to the Hudson's Bay Company in its early West Coast days.

Garrya is a handsome evergreen shrub with glossy green foliage. The dangling catkins are even longer than those of the nut trees, greenish yellow in color, and appearing as early as February in some years.

Another excellent dual-purpose shrub is the happy Forsythia, which blooms before the leaves appear. While the normal blooming period is in April, Forsythia is probably the best of all the shrubs for forcing. The bare stems can be cut as early as January, and the entrancing beauty of these stark branches coming to life indoors and opening their golden bells is really something to see.

The best varieties for cutting are the excellent new Lynwood Gold, Forsythia intermedia spectabilis, and Forsythia viridissima.

TV in Review

By Fred Danzig

Jose's Wonderful Time

NEW YORK (UPI) — I don't think anyone enjoyed watching Sid Caesar's comedy hour as much as guest Jose Ferrer did in being on it.

Ferrer had a wonderful time portraying a conscienceless emcee of a TV bride-and-groom show called, "Surprise Wedding," and later, the devil in a spoof of opera. His meaty enthusiasm and comic flair was the show's highlight.

The CBS-TV special, called, "Marriage—Handle with Care," was the second in Caesar's series of four for U.S. Steel. It had more laughs in it than the first but still had too many pedestrian touches to be considered a big success.

The funniest skit was the "Surprise Wedding," where Ferrer kept smiling and delivering commercials through utter pandemonium. The uproar developed when Ferrer tried to marry off Caesar and Audrey Meadows before a TV and studio audience. She was willing. He wasn't, to put it mildly. How he fought!

JOSE FERRER
... meaty enthusiasm

He ended up marrying the wrong girl—and happy about it. It was an uproarious spoof of outrageous types of TV programs. My chief reservation about it was that it was picking on a theme that has been clobbered before.

The opening skit compared marriages of 1890 with those of today and while it had some ingenious prop gags, it also had a fairly obvious theme. Some slip-ups in timing spoiled some of the sight gags.

A final skit, the opera spoof, was rather aimless, although Ferrer and Caesar did a beautiful bit of hand-haggling during the opera.

Marge and Gower Champion also were on hand for work in the skits and in a dance number. They are very clever dancers and players. Connie Francis sang three songs in her animated style.

Cultural note: Faye Emerson defeated Cliff Arquette in an honest-injun Indian wrestling bout on last night's Charley Weaver show on ABC-TV.

Shocker Stars Novak, Ford

HOLLYWOOD — Kim Novak and Glenn Ford are starring in "The Captive," the old shocker that had the gendarmes coming backstage when the taboo topic was produced on Broadway. They are hopeful of having Marlene Dietrich play the other woman. This is one other woman story that I doubt can get past the censors.

The magical Marlene, by the way, is getting something like $75,000 for her two weeks of enchanting French audiences at the Etoile in Paris. Seats went for $30 apiece on opening night, when Princess Margaret's personal hair dresser flew into Paris to gild the locks of the lovely Lili.

Mrs. Mario Lanza put $5,000 in escrow before moving into the Benay Venuta-Fred Clark home in Beverly Hills. As a guarantee against damage. There have been lawsuits on this score in the past.

Talking of Fred Clark, he plays a Beverly Hills judge in his new TV series, with a wife and two children—and they want to test Benay to see if she's the type to be his wife! Also on Clark's agenda is the possible lead in the Broadway play, "Viva Madison Avenue," with Red Buttons.

King Baudouin of the Belgians is wooing Princess Maria Gabriella, youngest daughter of former King Umberto of Italy. The princess has been staying with Baudouin's pretty stepmother.

And, while we're with royalty, blonde German actress Barbara Valentin has to remove her shoes when she dances with the shorter King Hussein of Jordan.

Franchot Tone to Zsa Zsa Gabor: "Will you stop apologizing for your magic!"—This when Zsa was volubly justifying herself when producer David Susskind was accusing her of "frivolity, cheapness and over-sexiness." "I am not frivolous or cheap," Miss Gabor insisted. "I am sexy, but only with men I like."

It took a good TV series to pry Stewart Granger away from his herd of white cattle in Arizona. He'll do "Safari" in Africa. And he has no objection to wife Jean Simmons bringing home the bacon in the form of moviemaking here and elsewhere. Jean is a full partner in their 10,000-acre ranch.

June Haver, very happy in her marriage to Fred MacMurray, has a sure-fire recipe for marital bliss. "Do what he does," says June, who was the indoor type before she became Mrs. MacMurray. Now she gets up at the crack of dawn during the shooting season. She plays golf, goes fishing, and sees a lot of her husband otherwise. She also brings him his lunch to the studio when Fred is filming. In brief, June is interested in her mate every waking hour of the day—and she certainly has no regrets for abandoning her career.

Jayne Mansfield aims to have at least five children with husband Miklos Hargitay, she told reporters in London. She has a good start with Miklos Jr. I checked with 20th Century-Fox the rumor that Jayne, who's still moviemaking in England, had parted permanently with the studio. Not so. Although there was a vagueness about future movies, except loan-outs.

'Population Explosion'

Controversy Grows

Every Day—135,000 More

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you read at an average speed, 18 children will be born in the world during the time it takes you to read this sentence.

Nine people have died during the same interval of time. So the world's population showed a net growth of nine.

Every 24 hours, the total grows by 135,000. Each year, it increases by about 50,000,000—the equivalent of adding an entire nation the size of France.

This is the "population explosion" that has plunged religious and political leaders into the controversy over the need for global birth control measures.

The basic facts of population growth are not in dispute. In recent years, the introduction of modern health measures has caused a sharp drop in death rates, particularly in underdeveloped countries. But birth rates generally have remained at traditional high levels.

The result has been a dramatic acceleration in the rate at which the human race is multiplying. Before the Second World War, total population growth never exceeded 1 per cent a year. Today the growth rate is about 1.7 per cent world wide, and more than 3 per cent in some parts of Asia and Africa.

At this rate, the population of the earth will increase from the present 2,300,000,000 to about 4,000,000,000 by 1980, and to more than 6,000,000,000 by the end of the century.

If the facts are not in dispute, their implications are. An increasingly acrimonious debate, which already has involved President Eisenhower, Protestant and Catholic religious leaders and nearly all candidates for the 1960 U.S. presidential nominations, centres around three questions:

The first is: How serious is the problem of population pressure?

The Catholic bishops of the United States, in a formal statement last week, asserted that "pessimistic population predictors" have greatly exaggerated the danger. They expressed confidence that "the thus far hidden reservoirs of science and of the earth" can be tapped to provide adequately for a growing world population.

Some scientists support this view. For example, Prof.

Colin Clark, of Oxford University believes that the earth's resources, if fully exploited, are sufficient to provide a comfortable diet for 28 billion people, or an "austerity diet" for up to 90 billion.

On the other hand, many authorities agree with Robert C. Cook, president of the population reference bureau, who says that present rates of population growth are "as ominous a threat to mankind as the H-bomb."

They say that runaway human fertility already is wiping out hard-won gains in food production in underdeveloped countries, and that mass starvation is a real possibility in the not-too-distant future.

The second question is: What, if anything, should governments do to curb population growth?

Japan's answer is a drastic national program of birth control, including legalized abortions and free sterilization clinics, which has cut the nation's birth rate in half since 1947.

No other country has gone quite so far. But India has been setting up clinics to dispense birth control information and devices. Similar programs are under consideration in other underdeveloped countries.

And that brings up the third question: should the United States encourage such programs, by providing foreign aid funds to help carry them out, or by sponsoring research on new, cheap and reliable methods of birth control that are adaptable to mass use in underdeveloped countries?

Two recent foreign aid studies have hinted that this would be a good idea. One was the so-called Draper Committee Report, submitted to President Eisenhower in September. It said that "government leaders in many less developed nations recognize that the only hope for their people" lies in bringing down their birth rates.

The U.S. Catholic bishops clearly had these reports in mind when they charged last week that a "propaganda campaign" was afoot to obtain U.S. foreign aid funds to "promote artificial birth prevention programs."

Protestant Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike of San Francisco asserted that the Catholic bishops' stand would condemn rapidly increasing millions in less fortunate parts of the world to starvation, bondage, misery and despair.

Story of Vast Riches Just a Fairy Tale?

VANCOUVER (CP) — A young North Vancouver lumber dealer, struggling to establish his own business, says he is keeping his fingers crossed but fears there is no truth to reports that he is to come into fabulous wealth.

Reports from Flin Flon, Man., indicate his fears will be borne out.

Hubert Fred Johnson, 23, who came to the coast in 1953 from his home in the Sylvan Lake and Lacombe area of central Alberta where he once was a $30-a-month cowpuncher, was told Wednesday that he would receive $2,000,000 on his birthday Feb. 20.

It was indicated the money could be coming from his childless uncle, Walter Johnson, a 70-year-old prospector at Flin Flon, who has a share in valuable nickel property.

Young Johnson said Wednesday night he had heard nothing about the possible wealth but that there might be some truth in the report since it mentioned Feb. 20—his birthday—as the time he was to get the money.

$2,000,000 On Birthday

He was told of the report by a newspaper reporter who received the information in a telephone call from a person who said he was a Vancouver lawyer but who did not give his identity.

The younger Johnson said Thursday he had telephoned his mother, Mrs. Ivy Johnson of Innisfail, Alta., and found she was equally puzzled. The family solicitor, J. S. McCormick of Lacombe, said he knew nothing about it.

In Flin Flon, Mrs. Walter Johnson said her husband doesn't have $2,000,000.

Most Wanted

Robbery Suspects Join Select List

WARREN WILBERT
DURNING

A young man and a youth, wanted in Ontario for a series of armed robberies and kidnappings this fall, have been added to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police list of Canada's most-wanted criminals.

The two are Warren Wilbert Durning, alias Ronald Lee Harvey, 24, and Richard Madison, 17.

The crimes for which they are wanted include a series of offences in eastern Ontario, and armed robberies at Niagara-on-the-Lake and Morrisburg, Ont.

RCMP bulletin, "these two men entered homes and forced the occupants to drive them in their automobiles on a tour of the province. They stole money, clothing and food but did not harm their victims."

"Both men may be armed and should be considered dangerous."

Durning, a Canadian, was born at Economy, N.S., on Feb. 1, 1935. He has brown hair and blue eyes, is five feet, eight inches tall and weighs 160 pounds. By occupation he is a bookkeeper.

Madison, born in Boston,

Marriage Means Trouble

'A Policeman's Lot...'

TORONTO (CP)—A Metropolitan Toronto policeman was to appear yesterday before a police department hearing because he and his wife, a former policewoman, kept their marriage a secret.

Acting Detective Ronald King was to face Deputy Police Chief Albert Lee on a charge that he failed to notify the force of a change in his marital status.

The Metro force has a regulation forbidding members of the force to marry one another.

Mrs. Ronald King said she and her husband were married last April 11, at least six weeks before the regulation was circulated.

"On May 15," she said in an interview, "police regulations were changed to make it an offence for members of the force to marry one another."

"But Ron and I did not learn this until the regulations were circulated in early June. By that time we had committed ourselves to the purchase of furniture and household appliances."

She said when their marriage was discovered last month, both she and her husband were taken before District Chief George Elliott for questioning.

"We were treated like criminals," Mrs. King said. "They grilled us for about an hour, trying to implicate other members of the force who might know of our marriage."

Robbery Loot Found

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—Police Chief James Melville said Thursday $6,500 in bonds—believed to be part of the loot from the $3,500,000 bond robbery of the Brockville Trust and Savings Company in May, 1958—has been recovered here.

He said the bonds were among $20,000 in securities seized here after a two-day investigation which began when they were presented to a local bank for cash payment.

John C. Hance, 32-year-old London, Ont., bartender, has been arrested.

About $1,200,000 of the Brockville loot was recovered a short time after the robbery. Later another $2,000,000 worth, more than half of it, was bought back by an insurance company.

$25, TV Set, Purse Taken

City police are investigating theft of a TV set, a car blanket and some cash from a Pandora Avenue apartment. Mrs. Thelma Richards, 1301 Pandora, reported to police that the apartment of E. Bowsher at that address had been entered, and a portable television set, a red car blanket and $25 in cash stolen. Also taken, police found, were a cardigan sweater and a purse.

Ice-Crunching Ships Last Through Seaway

MONTREAL (CP)—Crunching through surface ice, four Canadian lake ships slipped through the St. Lambert lock in the wake of a crippled Norwegian freighter Thursday, closing the multi-million-dollar St. Lawrence seaway for the winter.

Fast-forming ice gave a sense of urgency to the operation in sharp contrast to the pompous, flag-waving show that accompanied the official opening of the waterway last June by the sleek royal yacht Britannia.

The freighter Saltvik, towed by the two tugs, cleared the lock at 12:45 p.m. MST and was followed within two hours by the lake ships with the Rockcliffe Hall bringing up the end of the line.

The Saltvik lost her electrical power on Lake Erie and was taken under tow by the tugs James Battle and Sinnac down the Welland canal, across Lake Ontario and through the seaway.

For a time it was feared they would not be able to make it before the closing deadline originally set for midnight Monday by the transport department.

But the department modified the regulation to leave the locks and channels open for ships that cleared the westernmost entrance to the seaway before the midnight deadline.

Only one ship, another Norwegian freighter, failed to make it.

Fire Survivor 'Better'

Heard Voice Cry 'Help Me' Says Rescuer

Mrs. Pauline Armstrong, 45, of 820 Balmoral, survivor of a fire that proved fatal to her husband William, 45, at 1814 Quadra Wednesday night, was in "good" condition last night in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She owes her life to the prompt action of a group of youths who just "happened by" the fire scene before firemen had arrived.

Dave Horner, 21, of 255 Robert; Ken Henson, 22, 2539 Chelsea Drive, and Doug Ferguson, 20, 1052 Davie, all members of the Century Toppers Club, and AB Henry Oshaneck, 22, of HMCS Naden, share credit for Mrs. Armstrong's rescue.

As Dave Horner told it yesterday: "We'd been to a club meeting earlier, and were just driving around a bit. Along Quadra we smelled smoke, turned the car back, and saw flames in the windows of a house.

"We ran up to the front door, but there was a solid sheet of flame behind it, so we went around to the back."

There Dave kicked in a top panel of the door when they couldn't open it.

"I heard someone cry 'Help me! Help me!' and another voice from inside, but I couldn't see my hand in front of my face, the smoke was so thick."

SMOKE, CONFUSION

"I yelled for a flashlight, and someone brought one. In all the smoke and confusion it wasn't easy to tell who was who."

"With the light I could just see a woman lying inside the door. I leaned in and tried to lift her over the bottom half of the door, but couldn't make it."

"Just then a fireman came along, and he carried her out."

Dave said he heard someone say "There's somebody else in there, and he looks dead." Firemen went in and brought out William Armstrong, terribly burned.

DRIVING BY

AB Oshaneck was also driving by, he said yesterday, when he saw the flames. He grabbed a flashlight from the glove compartment of his car and hurried to offer help.

As it happened, he is taking a course in fire control at the RCN Technical School at Naden, and recognized that this was an oil blaze.

No date has been set for an inquest into Mr. Armstrong's death.

Attorney-General Blasts Flight

City and provincial officials yesterday set off their own sonic explosions, echoing the supersonic blast which rocked Greater Victoria Wednesday night as four United States jet fighters flew over the city.

Chief Constable John Blackstock called for advance warn-

Lots of Country

"There's lots of country or ocean that they could fly over instead of our cities," Mayor Scurreh pointed out. "Traveling at about 11 miles a minute it would only take them seconds to veer over water in order to avoid this city."

"Please don't telephone the police for information if such a thing happens again," Chief

Blackstock urged everyone—and other police chiefs agreed. "All our telephones in the charge office were jammed after the explosion. It was 15 minutes before I could phone in myself."

"If there'd been another emergency in that period, we'd have been helpless—and so would the people in trouble."

You'll Be Informed

"When anything like this happens, don't telephone. If there should be an emergency, you'll be informed."

In addition, Chief Blackstock said, he thought air force stations whose planes were going out on exercises that might produce such an explosion should let it be known beforehand.

"A word in advance to the localities over which the planes would be flying might well prevent widespread panic. Last night's explosion frightened a lot of people very badly, and it was a while before we could give a positive explanation."

Rights or Privileges

"I don't particularly care what rights or privileges the American air force has to fly over Canadian territory," Mr. Bonner said, "because that is subject to international agreement."

"But I do think it is possible and desirable that such flights be arranged so as not to disturb Canadian homes."

"I think the department of national defence should take this attitude into account," Mr. Bonner said.

"I suppose the federal government will complain if our sovereignty is being infringed upon," said Liberal MLA

George Gregory. "I am prepared to leave it to the federal government."

Mr. Gregory said "I thought something had blown up in the harbor. I presume they cleared with Canadian authorities."

"I wouldn't want to comment on anything like this. It is a thing for high-level Ottawa agreements," Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said.

"It is a little out of my line. I haven't even considered it," said Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

Stumped by Question

Canada's polished and self-confident External Affairs Minister Howard Green was stumped by only one question at an hour-long press conference.

1,500 Attend Optimist Bingo

More than 1,500 Victoria residents attended the 13th monthly bingo of the Victoria Optimist Club held last night in Central Junior High School. Another 500 were turned away.

Optimist officials said they would try for more space at the next bingo to be held at 8 p.m., Jan. 5.

Police are investigating the passing of more than $500 in forged cheques in four city stores.

The cheques, stolen from the office of Highway Sawmills Ltd., 2779 Peatt Road, were cashed at the Safeway on Quadra, the Shop Easy on Hillside, Eddy's Ltd. on Douglas, and O. H. Dorman Ltd. on Douglas.

The forgeries, endorsed A. Asair, 714 Kings Road, were in the amounts of $136.25, $138.25, $137.23 and $137.27.

City to Consult Saanich On Truck-Scale Site

City council finance committee yesterday proposed obtaining Saanich council's opinion before considering selling a piece of land on Patricia Bay Highway to the province for a truck-scale station.

"It's in the immediate vicinity of a church, across from Elk Lake, and there are some fine residences nearby," city manager C. C. Wyatt said.

City Man Bridge Champ

Victoria resident Otto Leestman, 1803 Fernwood Road, last night won a special tournament in the American Contract Bridge League's 33rd national championships held in Coronado, Calif.

Mr. Leestman, partnered by R. D. Hutchinson of Caryville, Ore., won a special, one-session event against a field of 438 pairs.

'Best Forum Ever' Tonight?

Victoria Jaycees, expecting tonight's civic election forum to be "the best public forum ever held," probably won't be disappointed.

Entry of a third mayoralty candidate into the race yesterday heightened interest already high.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce forum, in Central Junior High School, will begin at 8 p.m. The three mayoralty candidates will have a chance to speak for 15 minutes each, the 12 aldermanic candidates for five minutes each.

'Walk-Don't Walk'

Winter Jobs Stalled

B.C. Ruling Kills Area Work Program

Because the provincial government has back-dated by three months an offer to pay to municipalities 50 per cent of labor costs for welfare recipients who go to work on municipal winter works projects, neither Victoria or Saanich have been able to take up the offer.

Some 33 workers are affected by the new ruling.

The provincial government has agreed to pay 25 per cent of labor costs on all approved municipal winter work projects and an additional 25 per cent for workers who had been receiving welfare payments.

The federal government pays 50 per cent of labor costs on winter work projects and it looked like municipalities would get 100 per cent of labor costs paid in some cases and 75 per cent in others.

First stipulation in a letter dated Sept. 25 from the provincial municipal affairs department was that workers had to be in receipt of welfare allowance for three months prior to start of the winter work project.

A second letter dated Nov. 12 said the three months was to date back from Sept. 16, when Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black announced the program at Kelowna.

Saanich and Victoria had been ready to set their welfare workers to work on municipal projects up until that time, but a check of records showed they had none who had been receiving welfare continuously for three months prior to Sept. 16.

In Victoria, the reason was that most of the employable welfare recipients had accepted work picking strawberries or other employment during the summer.

Apartment

City Man Robbed Of $200

Theft of nearly $300 from a city apartment was reported to police yesterday.

Bill Frampton, Ste. 11, 975 Fairfield, said the missing money included about $250 in American money, mostly in $20 bills and kept inside a plastic bag with the words "Las Vegas" marked on it, and $40 in Canadian $10 bills in a small, black silk purse, as well as some silver coins.

Police said the apartment, broken into between 8.30 a.m. and 5.45 p.m., had been entered through a door on which the lock had been jimmied.

Archery Game Results In Shed Fire

A western game of bows and arrows yesterday resulted in the burning of a small shed at 500 Normandy, home of Reeve George Chatterton.

The shed, used as a storage place for the family's summer furniture, caught fire at 6.40 p.m. when a child used some matches to search for an arrow that landed beneath the shed. Loss was "insignificant" the reeve said.

Christian Brothers Roused by Smoke

Eleven members of the Christian Brothers of Ireland were roused from their beds at 959 Balmoral when the building filled with smoke at 11.15 last night.

City firemen found a drawer full of smouldering items in a kitchen cupboard, threw the drawer and its contents out the back door and then turned on fans to draw dense smoke from the building.

The Brothers, who are instructors at St. Louis College on Pandora Avenue, had turned in for the night, when one of them smelled smoke and sounded an alarm.

Cause of the fire was not known. There was no electrical wiring near the charred cupboard.

Honolulu Flights Will Land Here

Canadian Pacific Airlines inbound flights from Honolulu will make weekly landings at Patricia Bay Airport starting Jan. 2, CPA president Grant McConachie announced last night.

The weekly flight, arriving here on Saturday, will discharge Island passengers before continuing to Vancouver. CPA officials have previously stated that the length of runways at Patricia Bay is not sufficient for Honolulu-bound aircraft to call here to pick up passengers and take off again with a full load of gas.

Ian H. Campbell to Try For Saanich Council Seat

Mr. Campbell is an ironworker employed at HMC Dockyard. He has lived in Saanich for 10 years. His long-standing interest in municipal affairs was made keener by active participation in the fight to defeat a proposal to establish a race track at Beaver Lake some six years ago.

He was nominated by David Carey, president, and W. A. Porter, secretary of the Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association, and is himself a charter member and past-president of the group.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I was popular in college and belonged to the best sorority on campus. My dearest friend lives 350 miles away. We've both been married—seven years and have families. This girl married very well. They have a gorgeous home (I've seen pictures). She and her husband have been to this city three times in the past five years, and we always have an evening with them. She has said repeatedly, "Please come visit us. We'd love to have you. Our home is yours."

This is the record:

In May of 1957 I wrote that we'd like to come up for a week. She replied they were going to Traverse City, Michigan.

In December of '57 I offered to bring my little family up there for Christmas. She phoned to say they were taking the children to visit their grandparents in Minneapolis.

In June of '58 I suggested we come up for New Year's. She wired to say they were just leaving for Europe.

This year I'd love to spend Christmas up there but I'm afraid of another turnaround. All her excuses have been legitimate. Shall I try once more?—NO NAME.

Dear No Name: Your friend knows how to get in touch with you. Wait for an invitation—but don't hold your breath.

Fruit in the House

Dear Ann Landers: I am nine years old. I am a boy. I read your column every day. I don't have any troubles. I just have one question I would like an answer to. I hope you know the answer.

What does "Lace Curtain Irish" mean? Thank you—PATRICK.

Dear Patrick: Lace Curtain Irish are people of Irish descent who have fruit in the house when nobody is sick. You're welcome.

Stay on a Pedestal

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16 and my boy friend is 18. Ever since I've been dating there has been a rule laid down by my mother—"No boys in the house unless she or my dad is at home." I think this rule is OK up to a point, but it is being carried too far.

During the summer it worked out fine. If either mom or dad wasn't at home, Bob and I could sit on the patio or on the front porch. But now that winter is here we will freeze.

I know my mother would blow her top if I sat out in front of the house in Bob's car. The porch and patio are out because of the weather.

We are both respectable people and I know we would behave ourselves if we had permission to be alone in the house.

Don't you think my parents should have more faith in me?—A GOOD KID.

Dear Good Kid: I'm sure you and your boy friend are "respectable" and would behave even if no one was in the house—but it's still a good rule and I am not going to lobby to have it changed.

A boy has a lot more respect for a girl who must abide by rules and regulations. He may complain but inwardly it puts you on a little pedestal. Stay there.

Take the Bus

Confidential to WHITE WALLS: If you suspect her interest hinges on that car, why not leave it in the garage for two weeks and ask her to go on the bus?

Confidential to IN TROUBLE: Tell your mother before she tells you. The Family Service Bureau can direct you to the help you need. Depend on them.

To learn the boot-strap of teenage drinking, write for A-33 LADDER booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Tips for Parents

Impersonal Statement Brings Best Results

By HELEN R. HEWSON

"I know that very young children go through a contrary stage when they answer 'no' to everything. I try to be patient but my young man's 'no' remains a stubborn 'no.' He never changes his mind. Can you give me two or three tips that will help to break down his resistance?"

First of all, could you change your own feelings about his contrariness? If you feel that you must break down his resistance, you will probably handle this problem in a spirit of conflict which will add to his balkiness.

Understanding why a child goes through this difficult period helps a parent to be less tense about it.

DUAL PROBLEM

This "no" business often starts before the age of two and parents who have always handled the baby with gentle affection are confronted with it just as frequently as the more impatient parents. The child himself is faced with a dual problem.

His developing independence urges him to resist adult pressure, to make up his own mind, and he has had no experience in the art of self-government.

He needs help, but it must be given in a way that does not add to his natural stubbornness. Being patient does not mean that you stand and wait for him to change his mind. You are patient in the way in which you steer him towards what is required of him.

VERBAL MINIMUM

Cut all verbal direction down to an absolute minimum. He understands very few words, anyway. Few words in a friendly tone of voice will bring better results than a barrage of less pleasant sounds.

The day's routine of eating, sleeping, toileting and play can be carried through with very little fuss.

Also watch your choice of words. It's better to say, "It's time for lunch now," rather than "Do you want your lunch now?" or "I want you to come to lunch."

Make a definite but impersonal statement.

We try to teach children to respond to a situation, not to the individual. We want him to learn what is expected of him and do it because it is the thing to do and not because someone is forcing him to do so.

ACTION SPEAKS

Action and words together help him to understand. Take him by the hand and lead, not jerk, him to the wash basin, or table, to bed, etc.

If necessary, pick him up and carry him. We can also help the child to see beyond the crisis of the moment to a favorite article of food, a bedtime story or game with daddy.

The way we do things is important. A parent who is tense or cross will generate the same feelings in the child.

For Holiday Table

Full flavored European-type sausages, pickled eggs and crusty slices of French bread are ideal foods for an easy-to-make holiday buffet.

Easily Made

Entertaining Ideas For Holiday Whirl

Warm your guests when they crunch in from the white outdoors with a hearty snack made with canned chili con carne. Heat the chili while you toast bread on one side in your broiler. Cover the untoasted side with cheese and return to the broiler to melt. Top with heaping spoonfuls of piping hot chili.

BACON CURLS

Add interest to your appetizer trays with crisp bacon curls. Twist side bacon into a roll and secure with toothpicks. Dry out in hot oven or plunge into deep hot fat until crisp.

HEARTY FARE

Satisfy hearty midnight or early morning appetites with "Golden Toasties." To serve 6 people, split 3 hamburger buns and spread with devilled ham. Cover with cheese. Top with scrambled eggs (you'll need to scramble three.) Bake in moderate oven for a few minutes, until cheese melts.

TASTY, RICH

Casseroles that store in the refrigerator until needed are the perfect ally for the busy shopper or hostess. This one is a tasty, rich dish that fills the bill. Combine 1½ cups cooked ham cut-up with 1 can cream of chicken soup mixed with ½ cup milk and flavored, if you wish, with curry. Place in casserole. Top with cut-up cheese. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6 depending on appetite. (It's an easy recipe to double or triple.) Serve with rice or mashed potatoes.

GOLDEN SYRUP

Glaze your ham with golden syrup. Arrange cloves to make Christmas tree shape and decorate with red cherry "ornaments." Coat with more syrup and bake to shiny glaze in hot oven.

NUTS, HAM

HOT MINCEMEAT

Piping hot buns stuffed with good tasting foods, assorted pickles, a combination salad and dessert of hot mincemeat tarts topped with ice cream or hard sauce and lots of freshly brewed coffee is a menu idea that busy holiday hostesses appreciate, especially when the buns can be prepared and refrigerated until needed. Start off this informal meal with mugs of hot soup or bouillon and crisp crackers.

STUFFED BUNS

Twenty hot dog buns, 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, 1 medium onion, chopped, 1 to 2 tablespoons catsup, 1 tablespoon spicy meat sauce, 1 pound spreadable cheese, cut-up, 1 can olives, cut-up (small), 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce.

Slice buns almost through lengthwise. Combine filling ingredients. Stuff buns liberally. Wrap in foil. Refrigerate. Bake 325° F. for about 40 minutes. Serve immediately.

SOUP CREAM

Sour cream whipped until stiff and flavored with horseradish makes a new treat to serve with flavorful ham for your buffet party. Beat 1 cup sour cream until stiff. Fold in 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup prepared horseradish, ½ teaspoon salt and a taste of white pepper.

If sour cream doesn't please your palate try this horseradish sauce with cold ham: Whip ½ cup whipping cream until stiff. Fold in 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish, 1 teaspoon sugar and ½ teaspoon salt.

TOP WITH HAM

Scrambled eggs or cut-up hard-cooked eggs heated in your favorite cream sauce take on holiday airs when spooned over buttered toast topped with devilled ham.

Extra Sparkle

Glamourize Yourself For Holiday Parties

To sparkle at Christmas often a woman needs a little extra glamour, something more than the normal year-round party touches.

With bright lights and decorations, and color everywhere there is plenty of competition around and if you do not want to blend neutrally into the background some drastic action is necessary.

After all the exhausting preparations which seem to start earlier each year and continue with increased tempo for weeks, what you need is a morale lifter.

NEW HAIRDO

Very often a new dress or hairdo can give you just that but in the rush of last minute crises that newness wears off and you need a little extra uplift.

Using a beauty preparation for the first time adds that touch of daring to bolster the party spirit.

Maybe a coating of pearly nail polish will add that different feeling we all want to capture at Christmas. If you do not normally use colored nail varnish you will be surprised at how aware you become of your own hands.

If you are the disorganized type of female, who approaches Christmas day with a mounting hysteria there has to be a moment when you stop trying the impossible. Give in. Christmas is the time of good will. If things are not quite as you had planned, don't worry. Everybody is determined to enjoy themselves anyway, so why should you be left out?

POTATO TOPPING

Slices of ham can be chopped-up and combined with sour cream or cream sauce to make a nicely textured topping for well-dressed big baked potatoes.

The decorations may glitter, the wrapped parcels look beautiful, the array of food is magnificent, but what about you? You are supposed to stand out, too.

A touch of eye shadow could give you that dressed-up sensation or a spray of hair sparkle will make you look as though you had arrived with starlight.

A feeling of the importance of the occasion is caused by different things, even by an unexpected compliment from your own family. But it is wise to think ahead and have something on hand in case of emergencies.

$70,000 More*Refugees Need Cash
And 7,000 Layettes;
Doctor Needs Sleep

Target: $250,000 and 7,000 layettes.
Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, whose work on behalf of refugee children carried her on a 33,000-mile survey for the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada this year, took time-out Wednesday from a breakneck schedule to explain her work.

"Victoria is the fourth-to-last stop on a Canada-wide tour to raise funds," she explained. "At the moment we are $70,000 short of our objective, and we have to have it."

The money goes toward 62 projects operated in 11 countries in Asia and Europe by the Unitarian Service Committee. The 7,000 layettes, part of 25,000 layettes pledged to the United Nations, will go to Arab refugee babies.

Dr. Hirschmanova, in her 15th year with the Unitarian Service, of which she is executive director, is making the tour working on the basis of the 33,000-mile survey through the Far East, Korea, and three-quarters of India.

At Assam, India, she walked and climbed for 5½ hours at an altitude of 7,000 feet with a bearer and guide to visit her organization's most remote outpost.

"It was the greatest physical ordeal I have ever gone through," she said.

Early yesterday, Dr. Hirschmanova left by plane for Ottawa. During her stay in Victoria, she spoke at three schools and concluded by addressing a public meeting last night.

Barbara Stand-In
For Mamie

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Barbara Eisenhower, the President's attractive young daughter-in-law, faces a heavy schedule of state affairs while accompanying the President on his 11-nation goodwill tour.

The White House has said that Barbara, the 33-year-old wife of Maj. John Eisenhower, should not be regarded as a "substitute" for Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower on the 22,370-mile trip, which was considered too strenuous for the First Lady.

But according to the itinerary of the President's trip, most of the governments involved will treat the pretty young matron with all the pomp and ceremony usually reserved for the wife of a visiting chief of state.

She is listed as accompanying the President to all major functions and will be included in the President's audience with Pope John.

Faith in England

LONDON (Reuters)—A Russian-born woman doctor with a pet tortoise called Fangio and a yen for long-distance marching threatened yesterday to tramp back to Russia and give the Soviet Union scientific secrets which would "make them a race of supermen."

Dr. Barbara "Babs" Moore has lost faith in England because the High Court Wednesday ordered her to hand over her home to a finance company.

The 36-year-old doctor, who competed in a London-to-Paris race earlier this year on foot against jet-powered planes and has joined a British craze for long-distance marching on the last two weekends, was upset.

"This has broken my faith in England," she said. "I might as well go back to Russia and give them the scientific secrets

I wanted to give to Britain. I parted from Fangio the tortoise, even while marching. She did not disclose details about her superman secrets, beyond saying they involve the avoidance of smoking, drinking and sex.

Big Art Racket Broken by Arrests

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police broke up what was described as one of the biggest fake masterpiece rackets in the nation's history yesterday by arresting two Russian-born art dealers and seizing 400 paintings with signatures ranging from Rembrandt to Picasso.

The arrested men, Boris Lass, 64, and his brother, Mark, 61, claimed the collection was gathered by their

Bread Prices Back Up Again Following Pact

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Bread prices returned to 19 cents a loaf Thursday following a two-cent drop during the last three days. Bread distributors came to agreement following a threat by a merchant to sell at two loaves for 29 cents.

CALGARY (CP)—Ten women belong to the Porcupine Club, one of two clubs here at which judo is taught. Eva Welychka, a member of the club, says judo is becoming popular with all women who give it a try.

Tolerant Japanese Pamper Their Drunks

TOKYO (UPI)—Come cherry blossom time next year, Tokyo's tipplers will rate among the world's most pampered people.

Two "drunkards' protection stations," one with seven rooms and the other with 23, will be at their service by that time.

When they've quaffed a few too many, the inebriates will be gently guided to one of the protection stations and put under the care of a four-man staff.

First, a courteous desk sergeant will check them in, take their home addresses and phone numbers to get in touch with relatives and lock up valuables.

Then a soft-spoken, but firm, patrolman will see them to their rooms, each a comfortable 10 feet by five feet, and station himself in the corridor outside to make sure nobody wanders out and hurts himself.

A male nurse to treat emergency cases and a janitor to tidy up will round out the staff.

The rooms will have soft beds, running water, linoleum floors with half an inch of spongy fibre underneath to cushion falls, and walls padded with foam rubber to keep self-destructive types from butting themselves senseless.

Behind these protection stations, which will cost the Japanese capital a total of 7,875,400 yen ($21,588), is the same remarkable concern for the welfare of the drinker that has led some people to call Japan "the drunkard's paradise."

The drinker is a man with a temporary disability. He has to be cared for. In the courts, he is generally treated

'Protection Stations' Supply Home Comfort

leniently. During particularly festive holidays, women in Japan's big cities often form "stretcher corps" to clear drinkers from the streets and keep them from being run over.

Impatience with the often destructive antics of drinkers is growing, but the drinker still rates extra special care here.

"Drinkers are not criminals," said Kenroku Koike, chief of the crime prevention department of the Tokyo metropolitan police.

"A lot of them are good family men out on a rare binge. They have a guilty conscience to begin with. Putting them in a jail cell, the way we do now, just makes them feel so much more guilty that they may go out and get drunk all over again the minute we turn them loose."

Besides, Koike said, slipping a cup of green tea, drinkers are a nuisance at police stations and interfere with normal operations.

Tokyo is not the first Japanese city to build such stations. Nagoya and Yokohama both have one in operation now, and 14 more are planned for major cities throughout Japan.

Death Ends Happy Reunion

Father's Joy Snatched Away After 19 Years of Longing

LONDON (AP)—Mikolaj Para, a Pole, was captured by the Russians 19 years ago. He fought a war and drifted to Britain never knowing in all those years what had happened to his wife or their children.

He came to Britain with many other Poles in 1946. He still didn't know if his wife, or any child, had survived the battles fought across Poland.

Para began a new life. One day a schoolboy's letter arrived from Communist-ruled Poland. It was signed "Zbigniew Para," and Mikolaj knew it was his son.

From then on the father's main object was to bring his wife and son to this country.

The Communist authorities said the son could not apply for an exit visa until he was 19. They said nothing about the wife.

Finally the time came, the boy applied; and last Sunday he arrived in London.

The father came here from the industrial town of Letchworth for a joyous reunion. He took his handsome son to his home and they talked through the night and the following day.

Then the father, a steel worker, had to go on the night shift.

When he returned Tuesday he found his son dead in a gas-filled bedroom. A coroner found the youth had died accidentally from asphyxiation and blamed a faulty chimney.

"When he arrived on Sunday," the father told police, "it was the happiest moment of my life. He was happy, too. Now he's dead—after all those years of waiting and hoping."

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—

"I just didn't do it, that's all." So said Robert Raymond Cook, 23, when asked by RCMP if he had any statement to make after being charged with the murder of his father.

The statement was admitted as evidence Wednesday in the Supreme Court trial of Cook, charged June 29 with the murder of his 53-year-old father, Raymond.

Cook's body was found June 28 in a makeshift grease pit behind his home in Stettler. The bodies of his second wife and their five young children were also found in the pit, covered with bags, junk and automobile tires. All the victims had been shot and bludgeoned.

"DIDN'T DO IT"

RCMP Staff-Sgt. D. H. Beeching said he asked Cook if he had anything to say about the charge and that the suspect answered: "I just didn't do it, that's all. That's all I've got in the world. What would you think I want to hurt them for?"

RCMP earlier, on June 27, had questioned Cook about the whereabouts of his parents and their children. He told them they had gone to British Columbia to buy a garage business.

He said he gave his parents about $4,300. No trace of the money was found when police searched the cook home. He told RCMP he got the money from break-ins.

Ego Shines Through Author-Actor Books

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The woods are full of actor-authors these days as book publishers seek the gold already discovered with best sellers by Lillian Roth, Pat Boone, Art Linkletter and others.

The volumes multiply. They range from the sensational to the intriguing. Some are fairly intriguing. Some should never have been written. Nearly all have the same sound—the tinkling of ego orchestrated by a literary aide. The ghost is always present.

Some of those now in the bookstores:

The Autobiography of Cecil B. DeMille is a good view of the public face of the great movie maker. It is written with the same outward dignity with which C. B. spoke, yet he is able to tell stories on himself.

Goodness Had Nothing to do With It is an almost incredible account of Mae West's man-to-man conquest. "The various men in my life can claim a great many things," she writes, "but never that they had a dull time." Readers may so complain.

Ed Wynn's Son is one of the better versions of the now-standard confessional type of autobiography.

Paar, Rooney Coo a While, Spat and Coo Some More

By BOB BARNES

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mickey Rooney and Jack Paar cooed at each other like lovers after a spat, broke off long enough for some furious new cries of foul, and then started cooing louder than ever yesterday.

The acrobatics of the two seasoned showmen weren't hurting either one—or their publicity.

But you had to be on your toes to keep up with it.

Paar smilingly told his television audience—Wednesday night: "Mickey Rooney is a helluva nice guy ... I'm darn sorry, Mickey."

That satisfied the actor. Happy, too, was Rooney's personal manager, Red Doff, who announced that last night's show would go on as originally planned.

It all started Tuesday night, when Paar accused Rooney of being drunk on his show. Rooney walked out—by invitation.

They patched it up in a tense hotel room drama. Even the thorniest issue between them was settled. That was the barb left by Paar's remark Tuesday night as Rooney made his exit: "It's a shame. He was a great talent."

Paar Wednesday night explained it away. He told the actor in their man-to-man talk:

Pensioners Elect Slate

John Milling was re-elected president of Branch No. 5 of the Old-Age Pensioners' Organization at the recent annual meeting.

Other members of the executive are: J. C. Williams, first vice-president; Mrs. Mary Kendall, second vice-president; and Mrs. May Bennett, secretary-treasurer.

FARM WOMEN

Only One Sure Way

Unwanted Mail Can Be Stopped

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department said Wednesday there's only one sure way for Canadian households to stop the flow of advertising material into their mailboxes.

Any person who objects to receiving this material—usually mixed in with regular mail—can refuse to accept delivery of it. They can meet the postman at the door and tell him to take it back. He will.

Although the postal authorities didn't say it, there is one other course of action for those complaining.

MICKEY ROONEY

New Uniforms for Band 'Klondike Night' Target

Short skirts, leathers and beards, will be donned temporarily Saturday by S. J. Willis Junior High School band members when they present a "Klondike Night" fair from 7 to 11 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

The fair is being held to raise money for new band uniforms. The students, who won the Canadian junior high school band championship in 1956, are wearing uniforms made eight years ago.

Roulette wheels, crown and anchor games, bingo and other games of chance will be featured, along with the more conventional home cooking stalls and a white elephant sale.

The band will give three short concerts during the evening, and movies will be shown throughout. Klondike

"You were a great talent—but you weren't a great talent last night."

Rooney acknowledged he had a few drinks before going to the studio. He was celebrating the first anniversary of his fifth marriage.

Paar confirmed that Rooney telephoned him Wednesday and said he was "going to punch me in the nose."

"Well," he added, "I don't wanna get hit in the knee ... but believe me, this is no little guy ... He could lick most people in this studio ... The kid is like steel ..."

He gave a vivid description of Rooney's entrance, with a mad look on his face and wearing gym shoes.

"We screamed every now and then," he said. But finally "Rooney put his hand out and said, 'I'm sorry; I was drunk.' It took great courage to say I'm sorry," Paar said.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Did you know there were several ancient and medieval civilizations in Africa?

I just read about them in a new book, "The Lost Cities of Africa" by Basil Davidson (Little, Brown). It's fascinating and almost incredible story, based on recent archeological findings.

There was the ancient empire of Kush on the upper Nile, which rose to be a world power around 800 B.C. when it conquered Egypt. (The book has photographs of a vast field of pyramids at Meroe, the ancient capital of Kush in the northern Sudan.)

There were several medieval Christian kingdoms in East Africa, of which only Ethiopia survived.

There were a number of medieval empires in West Africa, the greatest of which was Ghana. (The new republic of Ghana was named after it.)

An Arabic book written in 1067 says, "The king of Ghana can put 200,000 warriors in the field, more than 40,000 of them being armed with bow and arrow. . . . When he gives audience to his people, he sits in a pavilion around which stand his horses caparisoned in cloth of gold; behind him stand 10 pages holding shields and gold-mounted swords; and on his right hand are the sons of the princes of his empire, splendidly clad and with gold plaited into their hair."

Men of Learning Honored

To the north there was the famous city of Timbuktu. In 1526 a visitor described it like this: "In Timbuktu there are numerous judges, doctors and clerics, all receiving good salaries from the king. He pays great respect to men of learning. There is a big demand for books in manuscript, imported from Barbary. More profit is made from the book trade than from any other line of business."

In East Africa there was a whole string of highly civilized cities. There are Swahili poems written in those cities dating back to the year 1150 A.D.

Great Bantu Civilization

Finally, there was a great medieval Bantu civilization in South Africa. Two large cities have been partly excavated, Zimbabwe in southeastern Rhodesia and Mapungubwe on the river Limpopo in the Transvaal.

The story of the discovery of Mapungubwe is particularly romantic. The ruins are on a steep, 100-foot-high hill that always has been considered taboo by the native tribes. In 1932 a farmer-pro prospector, Mr. van Graan, persuaded an African to give away the secret. He was shown the way up, concealed in a narrow "chimney" masked by trees.

The steps leading up had been cut in the rock by the people of Mapungubwe hundreds of years ago. Up on the hill van Graan found a vast site of archaeological treasures, among them many old ornaments and some Chinese porcelain dating back to 1200 A.D.

"The Lost Cities of Africa" is one of the most fabulous books I've ever read.

In Jail on Principle

Wife Raises $1,312 To Free Husband

OTTAWA (CP)—Jack Cadieux, service station operator and father of seven, went home yesterday after serving three days of his 240-day jail term for violating the city's early-closing bylaw.

His wife, expecting an eighth child next month, raised the $1,312 needed for his fine after saying she and the children couldn't run the service station alone. Cadieux wasn't fussy about leaving his cell.

"I would have stayed but my wife coaxed me to come home," he told reporters following his release. "I'll be darned if I would pay a fine for working."

Cadieux had been convicted on 16 counts of violating the city's 7 p.m. service station closing bylaw. The city had agreed to lift 82 similar charges against him if the fine were paid.

Mrs. Cadieux, who said Wednesday she was having difficulty collecting enough money for the fine, said yesterday she wouldn't tell her husband who made up the amount she was short. "He'd only get mad," she explained.

Roblin Urges Aid To Purchase Peace

TORONTO (CP)—A call for greater assistance to underdeveloped Commonwealth countries by Canada was sounded Thursday by Premier Roblin of Manitoba.

If only a part of Canada's defence budget were invested in technical education for these countries, it would buy more peace than the equivalent arms expenditure, he said.

GOOD LUCK

An old Nordic symbol of good luck was the rune feoh. It also could be a symbol of good luck for the person who discovers Grant's Stand Fast. But it could never be the symbol of this excellent Scotch.

Grant's goodness has nothing to do with luck. Its consistent smoothness and recognizable flavour are the results of methods perfected through five generations of the Grant family and brought to you in the distinctive tall triangular bottle.

Youth of Labrador Seeking Education to Help Eskimos

Faces of Canada

By LEON KOSSAR

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (TNS)—Meet young Fred Lyall, Labradorian.

Seal-hunter, Arctic char fisherman, welfare worker, and quiet, sober-minded student of commerce.

Equally at home in English or Eskimo.

No Contest

Home to Fred is the Eskimo village of Nain, some two-thirds of the way up the Labrador coastline. It won the Most Northerly title from Hebron, a community 100 miles to the north, just beyond Labrador's tree line. But it wasn't any sort of contest. For Hebron has just died.

It became an Eskimo ghost town this month.

Beauty Spot

Fred Lyall's Nain—a rugged beauty spot of giant rockery, stubby trees—is doggedly holding its own against the north.

If the great ore developments planned for Ungava spill over into Labrador, Fred's village of 400 can hope for a boom.

If they don't, Nain, too, may go.

The last of 50 Eskimo families in Hebron were resettled this month in Nain and communities to the south: Makovik, Hopedale. Two complete settlements have now been transplanted by the province to centralize medical, communication facilities.

Too Much Life

"But there's really too much life in Nain to think of moving our community," says the 22-year-old youth who grew up with Eskimo youngsters among Eskimo ways.

The Lyalls are one of 10 white families in this coastal hamlet.

This is the second in a series of articles introducing Canadians to Canadians.

More young men of north and central Labrador are venturing to larger centres today in quest of education. Fred's in third year commerce at St. John's Memorial University. Here at high school, from his own village is Johnny Ford, 19, whose family once lived with Hebron's Eskimos.

Diesel Study

One of their close chums, Eskimo Zach Tattaak, 22, came down last year to study diesel engineering at North West River's Vocational School, near Goose Bay.

Fred is a summertime interpreter and aide at Nain for the Northern Affairs Branch of the province. Most of the white settlers here work in administration or fishing on the branch.

Fred hopes to work in Labrador after graduation. Johnny hopes to be a teacher like his sister Beatrice. "In Labrador, naturally!"

"Labradorians are different from Newfoundlanders," Johnny will say proudly. He saw his first real urban centre, St. John's, for the first time this fall. "People in Labrador are friendlier, closer."

But island Newfoundlanders, a close bunch themselves, will hardly buy Johnny's message.

Youngsters like the Lyalls, Fords, others mix freely with the children of the Ikiatsiak.

Fred Lyall and an Eskimo friend examine a cribbage board made from seal tusk.

Tuglavina, and other Eskimo families at Nain. They play childhood games, intermix at community events in young adulthood. There's a Boy Scout and Girl Guide troop; for the older ones, dances and films, church programs.

A few have intermarried. "But there isn't too much of it," says Fred.

Sports are popular: football, bobsledding, and an Eskimo version of baseball.

When Fred shouts "Play ball!" back home, it sounds more like "Anautsaki!"

"Gone fishin'" is "ungan- iak"; hunting the Arctic seal, "polji."

"I don't remember 'learning' Eskimo. We all grew up with it. It's as natural as fried seal steaks," explains Johnny.

But mention "kayak" or "igloo" to them, and you'll draw blank looks.

Neither they nor their Eskimo cohorts have ever seen any. Nain falls short of the Arctic circle.

Instead, almost every Eskimo family in this neat cluster of 60 wood-frame buildings owns its own motorboat. They depend on it to fish cod, salmon, and the sea trout or Arctic char. Each family has its own dog team.

Scant Earnings

Yet fishing only brings Eskimo boatmen about $400 a summer.

The Eskimo community subsists in winter on unemployment insurance—or relief money.

Fred and Johnny look at the Eskimos of Nain as solid citizens, stronger in character and ambition than the "drifters"—the Nascapic and Montagnais Indians who live nomadic tent lives to the south.

"Not too long ago none of the Eskimos wanted to leave the north. Now quite a few have gone south for jobs, leave if they had the chance," Fred points out.

"There's no racial discrimination, and Eskimos feel they're being treated right at their jobs."

"The Eskimo is coming into his own. But it will take more education," he says, "... more time."

Grievance Overruled

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)

A firemen's grievance committee was told by Mayor Beth Wood Wednesday that the city refuses to enter into arbitration with the Fire-fighters' Association over the proposed plan to have firemen direct rush-hour traffic.

"We feel under the agreement and under the law we have the power to assign these duties and the matter is not arbitrable," Mayor Wood told the committee.

"We will not go to a board of arbitration and we will not appoint a member to a board," she added.

Russian Suits For Apollo, Not People

MOSCOW (AP)—Izvestia complains that Russian factory-made clothes are tailored for the ideal body proportions of Apollo and Venus, but look bad on people.

Calling for reforms in factory-produced clothes the government newspaper quotes V. Popkov, director of the sewing industry's central scientific research institute, as saying:

"Up to now the wrong principle of proportions to sizes of figures is at the base of clothes design... That's why suits sewn for Apollos look bad on ordinary people."

Use More Care Drivers Warned

DUNCAN—High speeds of cars today require the drivers to take care Magistrate A. C. Sutton commented yesterday.

He said this during the hearing of a charge of failing to yield the right of way against Richard R. Dobell, 58. Dobell pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

Police said Dobell entered an intersection on Indian Road Tuesday and was in collision with another car.

In other police court cases,

Frank Klement, 19, of Youbou, was fined $10 for driving a car Saturday on the Lake Cowichan Road without liability insurance. He pleaded guilty.

J. W. Dehen of Saanich, was fined $20 for speeding at 62 in a 50 mph zone south of here on the Trans-Canada Highway Nov. 11. He pleaded guilty and said he thought it was a 60 mph zone.

To Help All-Sooke Day

Sooke Plans Dance On New Year's Eve

A Sooke Community Association spokesman announced yesterday that a New Year's Eve dance will be staged in the Sooke Community Hall in an effort to bolster the sagging All Sooke Day bankroll.

George Hay, a director of the association, said sponsorship of the dance will be the first concrete step towards revitalizing the All Sooke Day summer event which draws thousands of Greater Victorians and tourists.

Dancing will commence at 9 p.m. on New Year's Eve and, according to Mr. Hay, will continue until "everybody goes home."

A buffet dinner of turkey will be included in the price of the tickets, $8 per couple, and a licensed bar will be available.

West Saanich Road

Firemen Rip Wall To Quell Flames

An overheated basement coal-fired furnace yesterday caused an estimated $300 damage to the home of Roy Tuttle, 9755 West Saanich Road.

Sidney firemen had to rip out an interior wall from floor to ceiling to extinguish the fire which broke out above a hot air register between a hallway and front bedroom.

Mr. Tuttle was not home when his wife and children discovered the fire at 7 p.m. and called for help. Their telephone was attached to the burning wall and Mrs. Tuttle said she had hard time dialing the fire department because of the intense heat.

Neighbors fought the blaze until firemen arrived.

Two Nanaimo Groups Plan Christmas Aid

NANAIMO—Two separate organizations will bring cheer to more than 200 poor families this Christmas.

The Salvation Army, assisted by many local organizations, will shortly begin packing hampers for distribution at Christmas, and the Nanaimo Christmas Committee will distribute vouchers to be exchanged for goods at local stores.

Included in the "Sally Ann" hampers will be almost 3,000 toys, looking like new, which have been renovated by boys at the Brannan Lake Industrial School. The boys will also assist in the delivery of the hampers.

Courthouse Excavation Contract Awarded

Provincial public works department has awarded contract for excavation for the new Victoria courthouse to Commonwealth Construction Company, lowest of five bidders with a tender of $92,655.

A symbolic start on construction of the long-awaited courthouse on Cathedral Hill will be made Wednesday afternoon when Works Minister Chant pushes a plunger to fire the first charge of dynamite.

Victoria Skindiver To Try Luck in Yukon

The lure of the north and the possibility of using skin-diving techniques in recovering placer gold from Yukon streams will take a native Victoria man, Harry G. Cross, to Whitehorse.

Mr. Cross, author of a skin-divers' column which appeared in The Daily Colonist during the summer and fall months, will leave the city for the Yukon shortly.

He said yesterday he will take his skin-diving equipment with him in an effort to find new pockets of gold in Yukon rivers after the spring break-up.

"I believe that young men should go north to find opportunity these days, and I really want to try the prospecting game in the light of skin-diving techniques," he said.

Successful applications of the use of skin-diving in locating and recovering placer gold have taken place along the Fraser River in British Columbia, and in certain California streams, he added.

For the past year he has been an active member of the Victoria Reef Divers Club, an organization of city skin-divers.

Nanaimo Drive Nets $50,400

NANAIMO—Nanaimo United Appeal campaign has been closed off with $54,000 in the "kitty"—more than $4,000 short of the objective.

The campaign, on behalf of 20 member agencies, ran more than a month overtime in an effort to reach the target.

Rose Bowl Parade

Alberni Student To Play in U.S.

An Alberni High School student, 16-year-old James Robert Ballard, was chosen yesterday to play with the Robin Hood Band in the New Year's Day Rose Bowl parade at Pasadena, California.

He is the only one of 17 Vancouver Island instrument-talists auditioned to be selected by the sponsoring Independent Order of Foresters.

Recording tapes of the seven finalists in the competition were sent to Hollywood, a club official said, and Ballard was chosen.

Nanaimo Ferry Schedule Advanced 30 Minutes

NANAIMO—CPR ferry sailings from Vancouver to Nanaimo will be advanced 30 minutes from the existing schedule, beginning Dec. 13.

Departures will now be at 5:30 a.m., 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. The ship will arrive at Nanaimo two hours and 45 minutes after departure from Vancouver.

The ferry will leave Nanaimo at 1 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. from Dec. 13.

Boys' Rifle Club Meets at Chemainus

CHEMAINUS—The boys' rifle club sponsored by the Chemainus Rod and Gun Club met last night at the indoor range in the community hall.

Meetings and practice are held each Thursday between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. under the supervision of Ron Middlemist and A. L. Olson.

Firearms, ammunition and targets are supplied by the club for a fee of 10 cents for each target. Members may use their own rifles if they are suitable.

Apology Asked

Ranch Bucks Bill For Road Damage

NORTH COWICHAN—Council yesterday found it was riding a bucking bronco when a horse ranch not only refused to pay a $20 bill for damage to newly-laid blacktop, but demanded a public apology.

Council recently sent a bill to the Flying C Ranch, for damage allegedly caused to a new blacktop road by horses. The ranch yesterday denied any responsibility.

Donald Morton, public works chairman, was instructed to discuss the situation with the ranch owners and bring a report back to the next council meeting.

Reeve C. A. P. Murison explained any action taken by the council was done following a report from an employee that there was evidence that the horses had done the damage.

Keep Clear of Gear Canyon Hunters Told

CHEMAINUS—Hunters using the Copper Canyon logging operation road belonging to MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., have been warned to keep at least 1,000 yards from the company machinery and operations.

The warning has been issued jointly by the company and the rod and gun club, which is in charge of the entrance gate to the area.

A bulldozer has been tampered with and tools, as well as a fire extinguisher, have been taken from it.

Vast Nature Park Suggested for B.C.

Provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szczawinski yesterday appealed for establishment of a vast nature reserve in northern British Columbia.

He pointed to a 9,000,000-acre wildlife range which is being created in southeast Alaska adjacent to the British Columbia border and said a similar project is urgently required in British Columbia.

He will enlarge on his proposals Saturday when he speaks to a meeting of the Pacific Northwest Bird and Mammal Society at the provincial museum starting at 2 p.m.

Some 60 scientists from all over the Pacific Northwest will attend and the public is invited.

J. E. Underhill of the provincial parks branch will talk about nature centres in B.C. parks; and R. Y. Edwards of the recreation department will give an illustrated talk about trapping, roping and tagging moose. Big game guide T. A. Walker will show a game film and other speakers will be Ian McF. Cowan and F. F. Bendell of UBC.

Fire Heroes

Passers-by Ken Henson, 2559 Chelsea Drive, top; Dave Horner, 255 Robert; and Douglas Ferguson, 1052 Davie, all members of the Century Toppers car club, were credited with saving the life of Mrs. Pauline Armstrong Wednesday when they helped rescue her from a house fire at 1814 Quadra. Mrs. Armstrong's husband, William, was fatally burned. (Colonist photo.)

Fire Survivor 'Better'

Heard Voice Cry 'Help Me' Says Rescuer

Mrs. Pauline Armstrong, 45, of 820 Balmoral, survivor of a fire that proved fatal to her husband William, 45, at 1814 Quadra Wednesday night, was in "good" condition last night in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She owes her life to the prompt action of a group of youths who just "happened by" the fire scene before firemen had arrived.

Dave Horner, 21, of 255 Robert; Ken Henson, 22, 2559 Chelsea Drive, and Doug Ferguson, 20, 1052 Davie, all members of the Century Toppers' Club, and AB Henry Oshaneck, 22, of HMCS Naden, share credit for Mrs. Armstrong's rescue.

As Dave Horner told it yesterday:

"We'd been to a club meeting earlier, and were just driving around a bit. Along Quadra we smelled smoke, turned the car back, and saw flames in the windows of a house.

"We ran up to the front door, but there was a solid sheet of flame behind it, so we went around to the back."

There Dave kicked in a top panel of the door when they couldn't open it.

"I heard someone cry 'Help me! Help me!' and another voice from inside, but I couldn't see my hand in front of my face, the smoke was so thick."

SMOKE, CONFUSION

"I yelled for a flashlight, and someone brought one. In all the smoke and confusion it wasn't easy to tell who was who."

"With the light I could just see a woman lying inside the door. I leaned in and tried to lift her over the bottom half of the door, but couldn't make it."

"Just then a fireman came along, and he carried her out."

Dave said he heard someone say "There's somebody else in there, and he looks dead." Firemen went in and brought out William Armstrong, terribly burned.

DRIVING BY

AB Oshaneck was also driving by, he said yesterday, when he saw the flames. He grabbed a flashlight from the glove compartment of his car and hurried to offer help.

As it happened, he is taking a course in fire control at the RCN Technical School at Naden, and recognized that this was an oil blaze.

No date has been set for an inquest into Mr. Armstrong's death.

Attorney-General Blasts Flight

City and provincial officials yesterday set off their own sonic explosions, echoing the supersonic blast which rocked Greater Victoria Wednesday night as four United States jet fighters flew over the city.

Mayor Percy Scurrell fired off an urgent protest telegram to Defence Minister George Pearkes.

Chief Constable John Blackstock called for advance warn-

Lots of Country

"There's lots of country or ocean that they could fly over instead of our cities," Mayor Scurrell pointed out. "Traveling at about 11 miles a minute it would only take them seconds to veer over water in order to avoid this city."

"Please don't telephone the police for information if such a thing happens again," Chief

Blackstock urged everyone—and other police chiefs agreed. "All our telephones in the charge office were jammed after the explosion. It was 15 minutes before I could phone in myself."

"If there'd been another emergency in that period, we'd have been helpless—and so would the people in trouble."

You'll Be Informed

"When anything like this happens, don't telephone. If there should be an emergency, you'll be informed."

In addition, Chief Blackstock said, he thought air force stations whose planes were going out on exercises that might produce such an explosion should let it be known beforehand.

"A word in advance to the localities over which the planes would be flying might well prevent widespread panic. Last night's explosion frightened a lot of people very badly, and it was a while before we could give a positive explanation."

Rights or Privileges

"I don't particularly care what rights or privileges the American air force has to fly over Canadian territory," Mr. Bonner said, "because that is subject to international agreement."

"But I do think it is possible and desirable that such flights be arranged so as not to disturb Canadian homes."

"I think the department of national defence should take this attitude into account," Mr. Bonner said.

"I suppose the federal government will complain if our sovereignty is being infringed upon," said Liberal MLA

George Gregory. "I am prepared to leave it to the federal government."

Mr. Gregory said "He thought something had blown up in the harbor. I presume they cleared with Canadian authorities."

"I wouldn't want to comment on anything like this. It is a thing for high-level Ottawa agreements," Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said.

"It is a little out of my line. I haven't even considered it," said Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

Ian H. Campbell to Try For Saanich Council Seat

Ian H. Campbell, 5038 Wesley, announced last night that he will make his first try for election to Saanich municipal council Dec. 17.

He was nominated by David Carey, president, and W. A. Porter, secretary of the Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association, and is himself a charter member and past-president of the group.

Mr. Campbell is an ironworker employed at HMC Dockyard. He has lived in Saanich for 10 years. His long-standing interest in municipal affairs was made keener by active participation in the fight to defeat a proposal to establish a race track at Beaver Lake some six years ago.

Police Probe Passing Of $500 in Cheques

Police are investigating the passing of more than $500 in forged cheques in four city stores.

The cheques, stolen from the office of Highway Sawmills Ltd., 2779 Peatt Road, were cashed at the Safeway

City to Consult Saanich On Truck-Scale Site

City council finance committee yesterday proposed obtaining Saanich council's opinion before considering selling a piece of land on Patricia Bay Highway to the province for a truck-scale station.

"It's in the immediate vicinity of a church, across from Elk Lake, and there are some fine residences nearby," city manager C. C. Wyatt said.

City Man Bridge Champ

Victoria resident Otto Leemant, 1803 Fernwood Road, last night won a special tournament in the American Contract Bridge League's 33rd national championships held in Coronado, Calif. Mr. Leemant, partnered by R. D. Hutchinson of Corvallis, Ore., won a special consolation event against a field of 438 pairs.

'Best Forum Ever' Tonight?

Victoria Jaycees, expecting tonight's civic election forum to be "the best public forum ever held," probably won't be disappointed.

Entry of a third mayoralty candidate into the race yesterday heightened interest already high.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce forum, in Central Junior High School, will begin at 8 p.m. The three mayoralty candidates will have a chance to speak for 15 minutes each, the 12 aldermanic candidates for five minutes each.

B.C. Handling of Vote Poor, Say Cowichan Trustees

DUNCAN — Trustees in School District 65 (Cowichan) will complain to the executive of the B.C. School Trustees' Association about the department of education's handling of their last school referendum.

The board approved the idea last night after finance chairman Will Peck said other districts could "fall into the trap just like we did."

The right hand of the department doesn't know what its left hand is doing," he said. Main objection was that a $1,152,292 referendum had been changed by the department of education and the altered version approved by the cabinet. The school board was not notified of the changes, voting took place last summer and the referendum was approved by taxpayers. The department then would not accept it, Mr. Peck said.

A second referendum — an altered version as prescribed by the department — was voted on in the fall and approved by the voters. Trustee George Whittaker charged the district got poor treatment because the government "hasn't any money."

NANAIMO — The Old-Age Pensioners' Organization and Nanaimo and District Juvenile Soccer Association will protest the present laws against raffles.

The protest will be made when a delegation meets recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood and education minister Les Peterson.

The groups claim they will be unable to continue their work if laws continue to make raffles illegal.
